Pollution standards cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, setting a goal of independence from Middle East oil within five years, announced relaxation of air-pollution standards for industry Saturday to ease an expected shortage of home heating oil this winter.

After a two-hour White House meeting on the energy situation, John A. Love, the President's special energy adviser, also disclosed new steps to boost imports of heavy oils used for heating through a change in price control regulations.

Love said "rationing of home heating oil this winter was discussed as an emergency 'contingency plan,' but no decision was made."

The President listed a host of other measures, including pressure on Congress to approve the trans-Alaska oil pipeline, which he predicted would put U.S. energy resources on the road toward self-sufficiency. Love said it would take three to five years to reach that point.

Nixon announced he would ease some new air quality standards and postpone enforcement of others to allow greater industrial use of such high-pollution fuels as coal. This in turn will release more low-sulfur oil and natural gas for home consumption this winter.

Although Congress has legislated authority for progressively stricter air quality controls, Nixon said he could act on his own to modify the actual standards set by the Environmental Protection Agency. Love said he would meet with a delegation of governors next week to seek necessary changes in state air pollution laws stemming from federal standards.

Love said EPA administrator Russell Train agreed with the decision because no health hazards would be involved.

Government officials have estimated home heating oil might fall 15 per cent short of demand this winter if cold weather is severe enough. Love has said supplies were "very tight."

Love disclosed that the cost of having Council next week will announce regulations allowing a boost in retail heating oil prices to help importers recover more fully the cost of higher-priced oil from abroad.

This probably will translate into a domestic price hike of 2 cents a gallon this winter.

The move was intended to increase imports to help meet the anticipated domestic demand for an additional 200,000 to 400,000 barrels of fuel oil daily this winter, even without a severe winter, said Charles J. DiBona, a special White House energy consultant.

Even though Love predicted the United States would be importing some oil, "certainly from this hemisphere and probably from the Middle East," after it becomes self-sufficient in three to five years, the President reaffirmed his determination to resist increasing political pressures from Arab oil-producing countries.

"The United States must be in a position so that no nation in the world has us in the position where they can cut off our oil," Nixon said.

MV mishaps claim 3 lives

TWIN FALLS — Three homes have been added to the 1973 Magic Valley traffic death toll with the deaths of two Twin Falls County youths and a New Plymouth woman killed near Rupert.

Dead are Carl Blackwood, 18, Filer, and Mark Heaps, 18, Buhl, employees of Green Giant Cannery Co. in Buhl, and Estelle June Tankersley, 56, New Plymouth.

Mrs. Tankersley's husband, Charles Tankersley, 74, and a sister, Mrs. Effie Morgan, 67, Ceres, Calif., were injured in the accident.

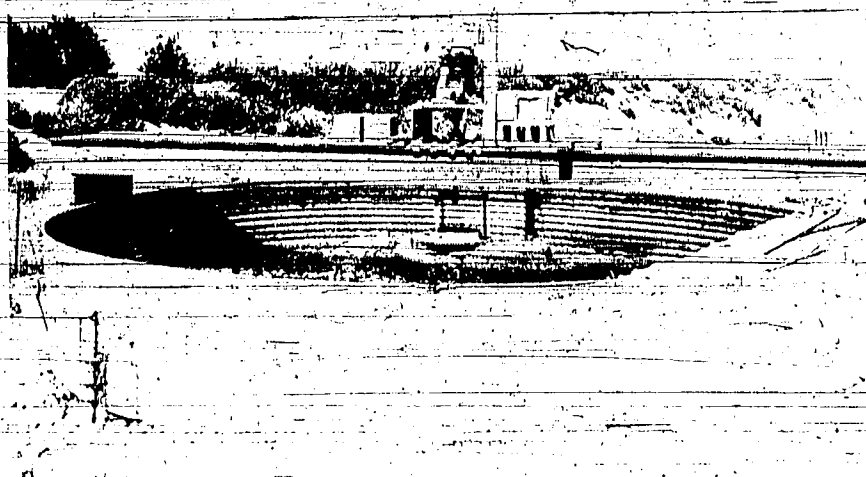

The two Twin Falls County youths had been unconscious and in critical condition since being involved in a rural intersection accident Tuesday five miles south and one mile east of Buhl.

Twin Falls County Coroner Clyde Edwards said both died of massive head and chest injuries. Blackwood, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Blackwood, Filer, died at 8:45 p.m. Friday and Heaps, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Heaps, Buhl, died Buhl, died at 7:23 p.m.

The vehicle in which they were traveling collided with one operated by John Reynolds, 31, Buhl. He is in good condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Tankersley died Friday night when she was thrown from the vehicle her husband was driving on State Highway 24 three miles south of Rupert. The accident occurred about 7:20 p.m. State Patrolman DeLoon Jones said the car was traveling north when it was hit by a vehicle driven by Mrs. Deborah Whitaker, 22, Rupert. They said she was pulling onto the highway from a cafe parking lot. The Tankersley vehicle left the highway and overturned once, going into a borrow pit. Mrs. Tankersley was pronounced dead at the scene.

The driver and Mrs. Morgan were taken to Minidoka Memorial Hospital where they were in fair condition Sunday. Mrs. Whitaker was not injured. Citations are pending completion of the investigation, Jones said.

Hazelton sewage plant pollutes Snake River

Land price stymies plant

By BILL LAZARUS
Times News Writer

HAZELTON — Construction of a new sewage treatment plant here could be postponed indefinitely because of a $40-an-acre dispute over the cost of the 17-acre construction site.

While most officials involved in the case decline comment, the deadlocked negotiations could eventually force the city into lengthy condemnation proceedings to gain the land, according to one source. That, in turn, could affect the city's high priority with the federal Environmental Protection Agency. The EPA is prepared to make money available in the near future for preliminary work.

One top state environmental official does not believe the situation threatens the city's priority, but he does acknowledge that a court battle stretched out two years would endanger it.

At present Hazelton's secondary sewage treatment plant does not come close to meeting federal and state standards, according to one report. The plant will be even less adequate when a new 48-unit housing project for migrant farmworkers looks up to it this spring.

In March, 1973, an Idaho Water Resource Board study of Hazelton's secondary sewage treatment system showed the bacterial removal from the sewage, which the plant drains into the Snake River, varies between 40 and 70 per cent. Idaho standards, the study states, require that between 85 and 90 per cent of the bacterial content be removed before the waste is disposed.

The study recommended Hazelton construct "full containment sewage lagoons" at an estimated cost of $116,000 for the system, including $15,000 for the necessary land.

That same month, Hazelton voters approved a bond to construct the new sewer system. The EPA would pay 75 per cent of the project's cost and the state of Idaho would grant 15 per cent more of the money, according to Jerry Yoder, Regional Environmental Supervisor of the Idaho Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS). Hazelton residents would be responsible for 10 per cent of the project's total cost, or about $11,600.

Yoder said the project has been given high priority by the EPA and is due to receive an initial planning grant in about a month.

TF death eyed

TWIN FALLS — Officers said late Saturday, chemical tests would be required to determine exact cause of the death of Jim Kirkpatrick, 22, Twin Falls, whose body was found about 11 a.m. at the home of a friend.

County Coroner Clyde Edwards said the death was apparently accidental and it is believed to have resulted from an overdose of some type of drug.

Kirkpatrick had reportedly spent the night at 148 Carney St., and the body was not discovered until about 11 a.m. Saturday when a friend returned to the home to find him in bed. The coroner said an ambulance was called when he could not be awakened and he was pronounced dead at the scene. Coroner Edwards also operates the ambulance service.

An autopsy was performed Saturday but no conclusive evidence of the cause of death could be determined, pending more detailed tests when the laboratory opens Monday.

Guerrillas surrender in Kuwait

KUWAIT (UPI) — Five Arab guerrillas, their hands raised over their heads, surrendered Saturday night to Kuwaiti troops who surrounded their jetliner on a sweltering tarmac, ending a kidnapping and hijack odyssey that began last Wednesday at the Saudi Arabian Embassy in Paris.

The guerrillas freed four Saudi diplomats seized at the embassy and held during a series of hop-scotch flights across the Middle East. The Saudis were reported in good condition and, although not needing hospitalization, were to remain for a few days in Kuwait.

The terrorists, who had demanded unsuccessfully that Jordan release a guerrilla leader, were believed to be "undergoing questioning by security officials," but their whereabouts were not immediately known.

As evening fell, one of the hostages, identified as Yehia Baha Eddin, a Saudi Embassy secretary, climbed down from the Boeing 707 Kuwait Airlines plane on a wood ladder and walked over to the troops.

Forty soldiers, bayonets fixed on their rifles, and a dozen armored personnel carriers, that surrounded the plane on the tarmac, where the temperature climbed to more than 100 degrees.

The hostage was released by the guerrillas to carry a message, declaring their intention to surrender, to Acting Premier Sheikh Saïd Al-Abdallah, the Middle East News Agency said.

Trailing a piece of rope, with which he had been tied, the diplomat reached the troops in a state of extreme exhaustion.

Thirty minutes later, the guerrillas began broadcasting messages over the plane's radio declaring they would surrender shortly.

The commandos and the hostages began disembarking from the plane at 7:50 p.m., one after the other, with their hands raised over their heads, the Middle East News Agency said.

Nationwide gas station revolt warned

By United Press International

A service station association executive predicted Saturday that failure of the courts to refuse to end the rollback of gasoline prices would result in a nationwide shutdown of dealer-operated service stations, as scattered station operators across the country closed shop in protest to the cost pinch.

Robert Jacobs, executive director of the Illinois and Indiana Gasoline Dealers Association, said dealers would wait until Sept. 17 when an appellate court will decide whether to allow an injunction prohibiting the rollback.

"If we lose in the appellate court," Jacobs said, "stations will shut down from the Atlantic to the Pacific. We can't live with Phase IV even if we wanted to." The two-state group claims a membership of 5,000.

Jacobs' sentiments were echoed in St. Louis where Missouri's two largest groups of gasoline prepared to vote on a proposed merger they say was forced by Phase IV.

A spokesman said the controls on petroleum products may force many dealers to close and that the two groups were banding together to work against such closings.

Retail gasoline prices remained frozen in August after the Phase III freeze was lifted on most other commodities. The extended freeze apparently was felt proper because gasoline retailers raised prices during Phase I by an amount greater than the increase in their costs from taking a markup on any wholesale price increases since Jan. 10 and requires him to absorb himself wholesale price increases since Aug. 1. Retailers contend the amount to be absorbed is about a cent a gallon for most service stations.

In Salt Lake City the executive director, M. L. National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, said the new federal price ceiling formula for gasoline stations will mean staggering losses for service station owners.

"I can't predict what dealers will do, but some will go out of business. They'll have to," said John M. Huemrich.

Miss America named

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Miss Colorado, Rebecca Ann-King, 23, of Sterling, Colo., was named Miss America of 1974 Saturday night.

Miss King, a blue-eyed blonde, sang "If I Ruled the World" during the talent competition. She has been chapel choir director at Fitzsimmons Army Hospital in Denver.

She is a graduate of Colorado Women's College, where she majored in secondary music education, but she hopes to attend law school. Her hobby is collecting and refinishing antique furniture.

Nixon radio address today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will go on nationwide radio today to give the public a one-day preview of the second State of the Union message he is sending Congress to get action on his stalled legislative program, the White House said Saturday.

Nixon taped the radio address—scheduled for broadcast at noon on major networks—before going with his wife Pat to Camp David, Md.

Kennedy eyes 1976 race

(By Washington Star News)

OKLAHOMA CITY — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says his "first responsibility" is to his family and that this will weigh heavily in determining whether he will run for president in 1976.

The Massachusetts senator said in an interview during a three-state political speaking tour that at this time members of his family are "pretty uniformly against" his running.

Agnew blasts critics

ST. CHARLES, Ill. (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, lambasting out at Watergate critics of the administration, Saturday night blamed the investigations for a "persecutorial atmosphere hanging over the American political system."

Agnew made what was billed as a major address before about 2,000 who paid $10 apiece to hear him in this GOP bastion of northern Illinois.

In dwelling upon the Watergate affair, Agnew: —Said Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate investigating committee, had done a "rain dance" to embarrass President Nixon.

—Predicted Americans would not tar the entire Republican party for "the misguided actions of a few zealots."

Chrysler drops strike penalties

DETROIT (UPI) — With less than a week of bargaining time left before a strike deadline, Chrysler Corp. Saturday rescinded all disciplinary action taken against 1,447 United Auto Workers members who took part in heat strikes last month.

Chrysler said it decided to end the penalties against employees at its plants in Windsor, Ont., in response to assurances from UAW President Leonard Woodcock and Vice President Douglas Fraser that they would devote their "personal attention" to preventing more unauthorized walk-outs.

Plane disappears; crash feared

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) — A chartered military DC9 cargo plane carrying a civilian crew of six apparently crashed Saturday before an attempted landing at Cold Bay, Alaska, an isolated, mountainous peninsula that adjoins the fog-shrouded Aleutian Islands.

The four-engine jet, owned by World Airways Corp. under charter to the Military Airlift Command, was carrying general cargo on a flight from Travis Air Force Base, Calif., to the Philippines when it disappeared from a radar scope about 20 miles from the runway before a scheduled landing at Cold Bay.

The National Transportation Safety Board in Washington, which sent four investigators to the scene, said the plane was presumed to have crashed.

AMA mum on indictment

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Board of Trustees of the American Medical Association (AMA) adjourned its regular September meeting Saturday without commenting on the bank fraud indictment of its board chairman, Dr. John R. Bernolite, right.

A spokesman said a statement might be issued on today but gave no details.

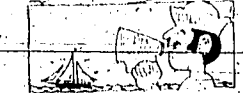

Indian flyers receding

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Rivers that overflowed last week in the central Indian state of Madhya Pradesh are now receding, the Press Trust of India news agency reported Saturday.

The latest round of floods have killed 582 persons in the upper Indian states of Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Gujarat, West Bengal, Uttar Pradesh and Orissa.

A total of 363 persons were reported killed in the first wave of monsoon floods that ravaged the states in late July and early August.

Dayan says Israel air in jeopardy

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said Saturday that the presence of Soviet-made ground-to-air missiles in the hands of the Arab guerrillas gave the guerrillas an "effective technical means" of striking at civil aviation.

The defense minister, in an Israel Radio interview, said the fact that Arab guerrillas now possess such weapons marks a "grave phase" in Arab guerrilla activity.

Dayan described an alleged Arab guerrilla plan to use the missiles to attack an Israeli airliner in Rome this week as "the most serious attempt ever" by guerrillas to hit a nonmilitary flight.

"The gravity of the presence of these missiles in terrorist hands," said Dayan, "was expressed in the fact that these missiles, bearing Russian serial numbers, constitute an effective technical means of striking at civil aviation."

But, the defense minister said, "graver still is the actual alliance of the terrorists with the countries from which they (the terrorists) had received these weapons."

He was commenting on an incident this week in Rome in which five Arabs were arrested after allegedly smuggling two Soviet-made rocket launchers into Italy. They reportedly planned to use the rocket launchers to shoot down an Israeli airliner.

Dayan said the presence of these missiles "indicates a grave phase in Arab terrorist activity, pointing to a partnership between the terrorists and states such as the Soviet Union, who supplied Egypt and Syria with these missiles."

A police raid discovered two SA-7 Strela rocket launchers with missile warheads guided by infra-red ray devices in a closet of a rented apartment at the Italian seaside resort of Ostia.

The missiles are designed to intercept planes at low altitudes.

Ostia is four miles from Rome's Leonardo da Vinci international airport. Experts said the Arabs could have fired the missiles from a boat at sea or from the terrace of their apartment.

While Dayan spoke, investigators probed the explosion of a homemade bomb at the Israeli stand at West Berlin's International Radio and Television exhibition Friday evening. The blast caused an estimated $21,000 damages but injured no one.

Investigators said they had no clue to the case.

B. I. Johnson

GOODING — Mrs. Barbara Ione Johnson, 61, Gooding, died Thursday evening in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital after an extended illness.

Born Sept. 8, 1912, in Ontario, Ore., she married Ted L. Johnson Dec. 6, 1944, in Shoshone.

Britains transplant 1st heart

LONDON (UPI) — Surgeons performed Britain's first heart transplant operation in four years Saturday, but the 56-year-old recipient died within four hours, a hospital spokesman said.

The transplant patient had 20 heart attacks in several hours just before the operation, said Denis Felstead, secretary of the Harefield Hospital at Uxbridge near London.

He told newsmen: "I am very sorry to announce that the patient died."

The donor was a 15-year-old schoolboy who was admitted to Hillingdon hospital Thursday after a road accident. He never recovered consciousness and died Saturday morning.

The hospital spokesmen described the recipient as an office manager but withheld the names of both donor and recipient at the request of the families.

E. Tankersley

RUPERT — Estella June Tankersley, 66, New Plymouth, former Magic Valley resident, died Friday from injuries sustained in an auto accident near Rupert.

She was born June 14, 1907, in Kennewick, Wash. On June 5, 1930, she married Charles Tankersley in Twin Falls.

She was an active member of the Rebekah Lodge and had worked for the state school in Gooding. A long-time resident of the Jerome and Rupert area, she was living in New Plymouth at the time of her death.

She is survived by her husband, New Plymouth; three sons, Lloyd Tankersley, Ontario, Ore.; Howard Tankersley, Washington, D.C., and Dale Tankersley, Boise; one daughter, Ruth Thrall, Rupert; two brothers, Cashious and Burise Yowell, both Jerome; one sister, Effie Morgan, Cerro, Calif.; 11 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. She was preceded in death by two sisters and one brother.

Funeral services will be announced by Walk Mortuary.

Price stickers may show car mileage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prospective new car buyers soon may be able to determine at a glance how many miles the 1974 models are expected to get on a gallon of gasoline.

The idea, first advanced by the Environmental Protection Agency last month, is to post the information next to the price sticker on car windows and the EPA said Saturday most automakers have indicated they would take part in the voluntary program.

The EPA said each car would have a label showing comparative mileage rates for cars in various weight categories and the cost of gas for driving the vehicle 10,000 miles at 40 cents a gallon.

By looking at the data, EPA said buyers could tell that new cars weighing 2,000 pounds should average 24 miles per gallon and that expected mileage would get progressively lower as car weight increased.

For example, a new 1974 car weighing 5,500 pounds would get only about eight miles per gallon while a 3,000 pound car should average close to 16, the EPA said.

TWIN FALLS—Jackie L. Allen, 17, Filer, suffered minor injuries in a three-car accident at North Five Points intersection Friday shortly after 6 p.m. Friday.

Livestock sale totals

FILER—The grand total from the sale of the fat livestock at the Twin Falls County Fair Saturday was $70,824.73.

Of that total, 37 hogs sold for $6,344. Eighty six heads of cattle went for $61,750. One hundred and one lambs went for $11,730.

Officers said they are continuing to investigate the case, but apparently someone on the outside allegedly brought the substance, believed to be barbiturates and marijuana, to the courthouse where the trustee received it and made it available to his cell mate.

The items were discovered in a routine jail check but the situation had been under investigation for some time. Potter is charged with two counts of possession and conspiracy with one Potter was a trusty. Both are scheduled for arraignment in Magistrate Court Monday.

• Why do we need to keep building power plants? Because we are serving more people

During the year ending June 30, 1973
24,907 additional persons began using Idaho Power electric service

Based upon 7,857 new residential meters and U.S. Bureau of Census report of 3.17 persons per family in Idaho.

Why do we need more electricity? One reason is that almost 25,000 new people were added to Idaho Power Company service last year. It's like adding the population of a city larger than Twin Falls. In addition, we made 1200 new commercial and industrial service connections.

Not only are we experiencing large increases in customer numbers, but electric use per customer also is on the rise. Idaho Power records show an obvious movement from lower use brackets toward higher consumption. Even though we all need to take energy conservation seriously, it is understandable that many families still feel the need to raise their living standards. Home improvements, or moving to better homes, are helping them... also increasing their electric use.

With demands for electricity expanding, Idaho Power Company must take measures to provide an adequate supply. When our Jim Bridger plant (under construction near Rock Springs, Wyoming) comes on the line next year, the company's generating capacity will increase by 500,000 kilowatts, approximately one-third of our present capability. It's our next big step forward to serve our growing family of customers.

That Delicate Subject Is Still With Us

By O. A. (GAS) KELKER
Editor, Times-News

It's really a delicate subject but the don't-have-so-many-kids advocates are still around stronger than ever.

A year or so ago when we first announced on this page the United Nations' plan to aid the "production" of smaller families—even through free distribution of the "pill" and other objects—there were some raised eyebrows in town, and more than a few telephone calls of protest for printing such a story were directed our way.

We would almost bet even-Stephen today that we will receive no calls on this article although the "kitty" which is backing the population reduction program has raised $20-million to $100-million and the list of donor countries from 20 to 60.

"If more proof were needed of the seriousness with which governments all over the world regard population issues, then these facts would provide it," said Rafael M. Salas, executive director of the United Nations Fund for Population Activities.

But he says there is still much to be done—although the programs are catching on in many nations. Population growth rates in many countries of the world remain high—high enough to prompt fears that even economic growth on an unprecedented scale would not prevent serious difficulty in maintaining future populations at a standard of living commensurate with human dignity, and high enough to call the possibility of such growth into question.

United Nations information shows millions of families all over the world live in conditions under which it is not possible to lead a full and healthy life. Poverty, unemployment, overcrowding, bad housing, schools and health services all contribute to these conditions. Because they are all interlinked there can be no lasting improvement in one without development in the others. This size, structure, rate of growth and movement of population are part of the fabric of social and economic development, and must be considered alongside the rest.

The Twentieth Century began with world population at about 1.5 billion. Today it is about 4 billion and by the end of the century—just 26 years away—may be 7 billion. One billion people have been added in the last 20 years and at present rates of growth, it will take only 10 years to add the next billion.

Although all countries face the population surge, it is the undeveloped countries (United Nations officials say) of Africa, Asia and Latin America that most urgently demand answers to the problem. Two-thirds of the population of the world live in these countries and five-sixths of the expected increase will take place there. Present average rate increase is 2.8 per cent a year—more than twice the rate for the developed countries.

The United Nations have affirmed the right of parents to determine the size of their families and to have access to the information and means of doing it. They have recognized the right of succeeding generations to a fuller and better life, the officials of the organization say.

The year 1974 has been termed "World Population Year" and the efforts to hold down the growth in all nations will be given full speed. Perhaps, the officials say, improvement cannot be noted overnight but in a generation it will show conclusively if successful. If not successful—and populations continue to grow unchecked—we are in for trouble.

There are four broad aims and purposes of the fund.

1.—To build up, on an international basis, with the assistance of the competent bodies of the United Nations system, the knowledge and the capacity to respond to national, regional, inter-regional and global needs in the population and family planning fields; to cooperate with all concerned.

2.—To promote awareness, both in developed and in developing nations, of the social, economic and environmental implications of national and international population problems, of the human rights aspects of family planning, and of possible strategies to deal with them, according to the plans and priorities of each nation.

3.—To extend dynamic and sustained assistance to developing nations at their request in dealing with their population problems, such assistance to be afforded in forms and by means requested by the recipient countries and best suited to meet the individual country's needs.

4.—To play a leading role in the United Nations system in promoting population programs and to coordinate projects supported by the UNFPA.

In all work, the United Nations group recognizes the absolute right of nations to formulate and promote their own policies without interference and the parallel right of parents to determine what they want to do when it comes to raising a family. Participation in the fund projects are voluntary.

But it all boils down to the fact that in the short span of a couple of years the "limit population" aspect of this old world is catching on. It will not be long, apparently, until the man and wife with a host of children will appear to be some sort of strange combination.

ART BUCHWALD

He Said: "I've Tried, God Knows I've Tried."

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has said there are many people in this country who would rather wallow in Watergate than get on with the business of the country.

The only person I know who is really wallowing in Watergate is my friend Pittsburgh Fitzgibbon. He told me the other day, "I've tried. God knows I've tried. But I just can't seem to get out of the swamp of Watergate."

"It's that bad, huh?" "It's terrible. I've tried to find of inflation, the cost of food, the energy crisis, but none of it gives me the pleasure that Watergate does. It's a terrible thing to admit, but I really enjoy Watergate, and I look forward to every new scandal it produces. I don't get that feeling when I read about pollution."

"But the President has said we have to keep this thing in perspective. We just can't get sidetracked by Watergate."

"He can't get sidetracked by Watergate, but I can. I tell you, it's made my life. Some people like to read about Cambodia, the Middle East or the fall of the dollar. But I can't wallow in those things. They just don't have the mud and slime that Watergate has produced. I could take a bath in it every day."

"Well, at least you're honest about it," I said. "Most people who wallow in Watergate won't admit it."

"Don't get me wrong. I'm not a wallower by nature. But Watergate is something else again. You've got the corruption of the White House, the Justice Department, the FBI, the CIA, the indictment of a former attorney general and a former secretary of commerce and one of the great election frauds of all time. Now anyone who isn't wallowing in that just doesn't know how to enjoy himself."

"When did you first start wallowing in Watergate?"

"Probably after President Nixon announced he had just received new evidence involving members of his White House staff in the Watergate affair. I felt this was the surge come over me like nothing I had ever felt before. Then when the Sam Ervin hearings started and I watched the long parade of witnesses who all gave details on how the American people had been hoodwinked by the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, I found myself waist-deep in the mud. After Haldeman's and Ehrlichman's testimony, I was up to my neck. And now that there is a court fight over the President's tapes, I have to fight to keep my head above water."

"When will you stop wallowing?" I asked him.

"When Martha Mitchell shuts up, when Charles Colson tells all he knows, when we get the true story on San Clemente and when Vice President Agnew is cleared of all rumors about corruption in Maryland.

"Good grief, man," I said. "That could be forever."

"It's not my fault. I had nothing to do with Watergate, and if I want to wallow in it, that's my own affair."

"Even if the President of the United States has asked you not to?"

"Well, I just ask us not to wallow in Watergate. He has to give us something else to wallow in. But it has to be big. Americans are spoiled after wallowing in this for so long. Once you've wallowed in the Watergate swamp, you just can't get out and dry yourself off."

About Land

Editor, Times-News:

If you think you own your land and are free to use it as you please, just because your name is on the deed, you have another thing coming. We started losing that power October 16, 1968, when Public Law 90-557 was passed that provided for the acquisition, use, and disposition of land within urban areas by Federal agencies. By its Title 4, Congress yielded legislative power to the president. The President, in turn, purloined this power, making powers to his appointees.

Last year the U. S. Senate overwhelmingly passed a bill (S. 208) for land use legislation. Similar bills are pending now in both the U. S. House and our own State House of Representatives. If you haven't heard about these governmental aids to improve the operation of our federal system in an "increasingly complex society," you aren't alone. The control measures are hidden in syrupy rhetoric about saving the wildlife and environment, promoting ecological, esthetic, economic, and social issues.

Senate Bill No. 1111 is now pending in our state legislature that calls for a state land use policy plan, conforming to the Federal land use policy plan. Even the wording of the bill follows Federal guidelines, indicating it was hatched in the same incubator. "The Council of State Governments," the international people who would take away with state lines in favor of regional government, and private ownership in favor of state ownership.

These land use bills could have a calamitous effect on property values. Laurence Rockefeller said in the Rockefeller task force report on land management that if the government cannot raise the funds to "compensate land owners, they should seize the property anyway under some convenient legal pretext. The technical term for this sort of activity is Communism."

Our own Representative from Idaho, Steven Symms says the people aren't showing much interest in this bill, because they don't know the freedom they will lose with its passage. He is right, but he stands pretty much alone.

The enthusiasts for land use regulation are the same people who are grasping for total control over the United States in the name of "planning for the future." As the society grows more complex, government grows even more incompetent to make economic decisions.

World Trade Talks Climate Not Right

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The world trade talks starting in Tokyo Sept. 12 are badly needed, yet promise to be substantially unproductive.

Among the reasons hopes are not high are the unsettled state of U. S. trade attitudes, and some internal squabbling going on within the European Economic Community, the world's biggest trading unit. Given these uncertainties and a rapidly shifting, highly troublesome general trade picture, it is hard to see how the negotiators will get beyond the surface.

Not too many months ago, the United States was fretting desperately about a flood of imports and a huge trade deficit, especially with potent Japan.

Despite this year's chaos over the weakened dollar, various U. S. devaluations have altered circumstances and, in an astonishingly quick turn-around, the prospect now is that in the last half of 1973 this country may actually show a trade surplus.

U. S. exports are booming, and some economists are saying the dollar today is actually undervalued. Items like American television sets are competing well in world markets against Japanese output; and are said even to be making some inroads in the more liberalized Japanese market itself.

A year ago, the threat that worried the big trading nations was the evident growth of U. S. protectionism against imports. President Nixon's trade bill, presented last winter but still languishing in Congress, asked for discretionary executive authority to raise trade barriers as well as lower them.

Now he hardly seems to have even to push for this authority, even though certain protectionist forces are busy leaning on Congress and, in that body's present anti-Nixon mood, it may wind up giving him more import-restrictive power than he can use.

What world traders face today is another kind of fear—that America, perhaps increasingly beset by shortages, may slap on more extensive export controls than those narrowly or temporarily applied by the President late last spring.

Meantime, in the EEC, where Britain's entry was counted upon to signal a new drive toward economic unity and harmony, 1973 has seen Britain, France and West Germany battling like alley cats.

The British, with their special ties to established old commonwealth partners, haven't fared easily. The French seem dominated by concern over protecting their weak agriculture; the Germans, strongest of the lot, nevertheless have inflation and other troubles, and are distrusted by the French, who think Willy Brandt is too cozy with Moscow.

As for Japan, its world image as the power grabbing for everything it can buy and trying to unload its industrial output everywhere is a portrait more overdrawn than usual.

It has never been allowed to break deeply into the European market; its trading advantage with America was so big as to be a strain on U. S. Japanese relations, and Prime Minister Tanaka on his visit here announced, with what seemed great relief, that this year the Japanese edge would be cut in half.

"Now Why Didn't I Think of That?"

Airport Study

Editor, Times-News:

I have before me a "Regional Airport Site Selection Study." It is quite a study; I don't know how much this cost taxpayers, but I have seen briefer studies that ran in excess of $50,000. The reason for going through its over 250 pages, with accompanying maps, drawings and tables was to try to determine why all the agitation for a big regional airport. I still am not sure why!

I note the present number of passengers and freight using existing facilities, and the mythical projections of what the planners expect 20 years hence, in 1992. Even if you accept these optimistic estimates, which takes a certain degree of gullibility the present facilities could not be considered really crowded. That we actually need a big new airport is too much to swallow—it won't go down.

In looking for some other explanation, I turned back to the first page to see to whom the report was made. It was addressed to Mr. George P. Forschler, Chairman, Southern Idaho Regional Airport Authority, Ponderosa Inn, Burley, Idaho. Oh! Now I began to see! I began to suspect that the ones who are agitating for a new airport are no more disinterested, personally, than are the farmers who are objecting to having their farms covered up with asphalt and concrete or the neighboring farmers who object to the anticipated noise and air pollution associated with airports. How nice to get the taxpayer to pick up the tab to the tune of an estimated $12 million to create a dandy new site for tourist facilities, convention centers and other businesses.

Again looking at the proposed plan I note a contiguous area designated as "industrial park" and the attendant sewage system and other paraphernalia associated with population centers.

The government bulldozer generally rolls over whom it chooses, but to date the taxpayer has been allowed a bond election before actual work begins. I hope that when this time comes, the taxpayers of the seven affected counties consider exactly what it is they are being asked to pay for.

Back To Problems

The Roman Catholic community in the United States faces some major problems with the opening of school this fall. Parochial education, like public, carries a very high price tag. The salaries of teachers and administrators, the maintenance of buildings and grounds, the new round of inflation—all makes for a most trying September. And recent Supreme Court decisions ruling out several forms of aid to nonpublic schools (and tuition-paying parents) puts a new burden on the Catholic Church.

In other times and places, Protestants and Jews who opposed any aid or assistance to parochial education felt assured in the separation of church and state. Any putdown by the courts would bring at least two cheers at the next

Presbytery or Conference meeting. But now the times and the world are different. It is a growing reality, where Christians of all brands and persuasions care about what is happening to the other branch. And friends, the Catholic school system is hurting. In a recent pastoral message, the Catholic bishops of America put it on the line: "The Catholic Church is committed to the education of all children in this country."

Even the most ardent secularist, who is familiar with the decay of the American inner city and the pathetic response of ghetto public schools, might find a fresh reason to support the Catholic school. For in many communities, particularly in our great urban centers, the church school is the last stand offering help and hope to neighborhoods riddled by crime, drugs, and human depravity. I don't believe that sensitive people would allow these outposts of caring and education to vanish.

The bishops remind the Catholic community that they have a threefold purpose in Christian education: "to teach doctrine, to build community, and to serve." The debates of the past have developed over the first point; the cooperation of the present have evolved from the second and third points.

Soviet drug 'crimes' told

JAMES HOFFA—
...stop prisons

MOSCOW (UPI)—Nuclear physicist Andrei D. Sakharov said Saturday that Soviet psychiatrists are using drugs on some detained dissidents that can damage their intelligence.

At a news conference with 14 Western correspondents, Sakharov urged world psychiatrists coming to the Soviet Union for an international conference next month to demand the right to visit dissidents held in mental hospitals.

If Soviet authorities refuse permission, the psychiatrist should then refuse to have any contact with Soviet psychiatrists, "who are in effect accomplices to these crimes," he said.

Sakharov also spoke out for the first time in response to the current Soviet press campaign against him, saying the repeated accusation that he favors war is a "conscious distortion of my position."

(In Bonn West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, in his first official comment on the plight of Soviet dissidents, issued a statement Saturday giving his support to those who are endangered because of their convictions.)

The news conference was held in the living room of Sakharov's modest apartment.

Pharmaceuticals were in evidence on the street nearby, but they made no attempt to prevent newsmen from entering.

Sakharov, father of the Soviet hydrogen bomb and leader of a civil rights movement, has been under attack for several weeks because of an earlier news conference at which he warned against Western accommodation with the Soviets in the absence of democratization here.

African liberation backed

ALGIERS (UPI)—Jamaican and Guyana volunteers Saturday said they would help African liberation movements overthrow white minority governments.

Drawing loud applause from the nonaligned summit conference, Jamaican Premier Michael Manley said:

"We are willing to offer to the organization of African Unity (OAU) that whenever it feels that volunteers from other countries can be trained to assist successfully in the overthrow of the racist regimes of South Africa and Rhodesia and the colonial regimes in Angola, Mozambique and Guinea-Bissau, we will undertake to recruit volunteers and send them across the ocean to Africa."

calling for Israeli withdrawal from Arab territories it occupied in the 1967 Middle East War.

Manley spoke shortly after the summit's political committee adopted a resolution calling on nonaligned countries to boycott Israel diplomatically and economically.

Manley began his speech before more than 50 heads of state and government by saying Jamaica and Guyana had agreed that it "be regarded as a presentation on behalf of the two states."

Algerian President Houari Boumedienne, chairman of the conference, announced that in view of the long list of speakers who had not yet taken the floor

In the general international debate, the summit will be extended until Sunday instead of ending Sunday as scheduled.

Boumedienne announced that Sheikh Zayed Bin Sultan ruler of the United Arab Emirates, had donated $3 million to aid African countries suffering from food shortages caused by drought. He said Ben Sultan also had decided to give the OAU $500,000 in aid to African liberation movements.

Manley said his offers were examples of concrete action nonaligned countries can take instead of contenting themselves with words. Cuban Premier Fidel Castro hugged and kissed Manley after his speech.

Hoffa takes poke at prison officials

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Former Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa said Saturday prison officials often ignore specific warnings about riots that are about to explode within their walls.

Hoffa, at a news conference before a dinner sponsored by the National Association for Justice, said officials at the Stateville Prison at Joliet, Ill., and the Indiana State Prison at Michigan City had been warned about problems that could evolve into riots.

In both cases, he said, as with prison officials in general, the warnings were ignored. Riots erupted soon after at both facilities.

Hoffa said the unresponsiveness of prison officials is a major cause of inmate discontent. "The arrogance of the warden and the captains, you would not believe," he said.

Other major problems, he said, are overcrowding, poor medical care and recreation facilities, bad food and a lack of classification among different types of prisoners.

"They're all lumped together," he said.

Too often, Hoffa said, no attention is given to those conditions until a riot occurs.

"The biggest problem we have," he said, "is getting responsible people to realize that preventing a riot is better than quelling a riot."

Hoffa said during the five years he spent at the Lewisburg, Pa., prison he witnessed rapes, murders and riots. He said in some cases guards provoke riots because they want people to see prison conditions on television so guards can get more help.

The problems are not racial, he said. "The inmates are so busy trying to combat officials at the prison they don't have time to develop a black and white situation."

A lack of change is the problem, Hoffa said. Most jails are 75 years old or more and use antiquated methods, rules and regulations, lock and key, bells and chimes. "It's incarceration," he said, "not rehabilitation."

He said many of the changes could come about by legislation, but action has been held up by congressional attention focused on Watergate.

"Had it not been for Watergate," he said, "We would have gotten legislation setting up minimum guidelines that would have solved many of these problems."

The first overland stage from the East arrived on the West Coast in 1857.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the issue of President Nixon's secret tape recordings in legal proceedings, the Watergate investigation is turning toward other alleged misdeeds in the 1972 presidential campaign.

The Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities meets Tuesday for the first time since concluding 11 weeks of public hearings Aug. 7. It is expected to resume hearings the week of Sept. 17 with a half-dozen witnesses providing transnational testimony between the Watergate and "dirty tricks" phases of its probe.

The committee must decide whether to handle the "dirty tricks" and campaign financing phases as a whole or as two subcommittees, and whether to try to complete all hearings by Nov. 1 as chief counsel Sam Dash has indicated.

The situation on the various aspects of the investigation: Watergate — Expected to testify before the Senate committee are former White House Special Counsel Charles W. Colson; E. Howard Hunt Jr., a former White House consultant convicted in the bugging of Democratic national offices; Egil "Bud" Krogh Jr., head of the White House "plumbers" investigative unit; David R. Young, Krogh's aide; William O. Bittman, Hunt's attorney; and Kenneth W. Parkinson and Paul O'Brien, attorneys for the Committee to Re-elect the President.

"Dirty tricks" — Three Senate investigators who fanned out across the nation have learned that former Treasury Department lawyer Donald H. Segretti contacted about 25 persons to participate in alleged acts aimed against Democrats. Segretti has been indicted in Florida on charges involving defamatory letters about Democratic candidates in that state's 1972 presidential primary.

Campaign financing —

Senate investigators sent letters to 100 corporate donors and 100 individual contributors and want to limit inspection of the tapes to see if any should be submitted to a federal grand jury. Both the White House and Cox asked the U.S. Court of Appeals here for a writ of mandamus to stop Sirica.

The White House claims Sirica was "clearly erroneous" and has no authority to monitor the tapes because of the constitutional separation of powers. Cox wants more assurance that the grand jury will get the tapes.

The appeals court set a hearing for Tuesday and said it wants to expedite the case so it is ready for the Supreme Court when the fall term opens Oct. 1. Cox wants a Supreme Court ruling by Nov. 15 so that the grand jury will know well in advance of its Dec. 5 expiration date whether it will have the tapes.

The Senate suit to get the tapes is far behind the Cox effort. Sirica turned down Dash's attempt to speed up proceedings a few days ago and set a hearing for Sept. 24 on the Senate motion for a summary judgment.

Talks threatened

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corporation's disciplinary action against more than 1,600 workers who took part in heat strikes threatened Saturday to snag contract talks with the United Auto Workers. Less than a week from a possible strike. Thirteen workers at the Windsor, Ont., car, truck and engine plants were fired. Another 300 were suspended from five to 20 days and more than 1,100 were given letters of reprimand for walking off their jobs in a late August heat wave.

A company spokesman said the move was "routine disciplinary action" and confirmed another nine workers were suspended at a Detroit plant for taking part in a heat

Moorer hits US air war

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, the nation's top ranking military officer, said Saturday that U.S. air power failed to achieve its goal during most of the Vietnam war, needlessly extending the conflict's scope and duration.

But Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, cited three exceptions to that general assessment — the secret 1969-70 bombing of Cambodia and the two periods of heavy bombing of North and South Vietnam in 1972. In each of these cases, he said, the concentrated application of air power got dramatic results.

Moorer, in a speech prepared for delivery here to the Tail Hook Reunion, an association of Navy carrier pilots, said President Lyndon B. Johnson employed a "strategy of gradualism" in committing the United States to the war, meaning bombing of North Vietnam was restricted to certain targets.

"This gradual application of air power, with frequent bombing halts over the course of time, was intended to give the enemy cause and motivate him into seeking a political solution of the war," Moorer said.

On the plus side, however, Moorer said air power made one truly significant and frequently ignored contribution — the protection of American lives.

He said a good example was the secret bombing of North Vietnamese base areas in Cambodia, code-named "Operation Menu."

Battle roars in Cambodia

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government and Communist troops fought for control of once-beautiful Kompong Cham Saturday, ignoring the stifling smell of death and the cries of the wounded in their nine-day-old battle for the provincial capital.

Field reporters and refugees who fled from the surrounded town 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh said they saw dozens of dead and wounded, many of them civilians caught in the cross-fire.

One refugee said the streets were strewn with mangled bodies and others died screaming because there was no medical care available.

In Vietnam, fighting was at a wartime level Saturday, despite the seven-month-old cease-fire.

Lt. Col. Do Viet, spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, reported 120 Communist truce violations between noon Friday and midday Saturday. The total was six fewer than the previous day, but the second-highest 24-hour total since July 27, when there were 127.

Spokesman said the heaviest Vietnam fighting was in the Central Highlands centered about 200 miles north of Saigon.

From Phnom Penh, the Cambodian-High Command gave an optimistic picture of the Kompong Cham fighting. "The enemy cannot attack their chance to attack the city is finished," said command spokesman Col. An Hong.

Refugees said the nauseating smell of decomposing bodies hung over the town, Cambodia's third largest.

One report said many would-be refugees were killed in the cross-fire when insurgent troops overran the southern section of the city Friday, only to be driven out by government soldiers.

Most of the fighting centered around gray brick textile factory off the blacktop road connecting the city with the airport three miles to the west.

The Cijonko-built factory was the major Communist stronghold in the southern section of the city. From the factory, the Communists controlled the airport road.

A Cambodian Air Force F2B bombing rebel forces there was hit by ground fire Saturday morning but made its way back to Phnom Penh safely.

Kompong Cham is located in one of the country's richest agricultural areas on the bank of the Mekong River. Once it was a city of colorful buildings, wide tree-lined streets and well-kept parks.

Hunt ban ordered

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Tanzania Saturday ordered a ban on shooting or capturing of wild animals in a growing move to outlaw big game hunting in Africa.

The action by Tanzania followed bans imposed by the governments of Kenya and the Ivory Coast on the hunting of elephants in an effort to keep the herds from being wiped out.

Officials of all three countries said elephant herds were in danger because of indiscriminate slaughter by poachers.

The bans will affect mainly wealthy American and European hunters.

The Tanzanian Natural Resources and Tourism Ministry said Saturday: "Following an increase of illegal hunting of wildlife, the Government has issued an order to prohibit any type of hunting and the capturing of wild animals alive. If poaching is allowed to continue the wildlife heritage can be seriously jeopardized."

A ministry spokesman said the ban was immediate and would remain in force "until further notice."

The Ivory Coast earlier this week imposed a 10-year moratorium on elephant shooting and said offenders would be "severely punished."

Kenya late last week banned elephant hunting and ivory dealings to study ways to tighten hunting regulations.

Officials said that illegal hunting has increased dramatically in the last year through-out Africa, because of an insatiable demand for ivory, rhino horns and skins from speculators, especially in the Far East.

One American, Leo Roetger, of Ft. Atkinson, Wis., is already embroiled in one hunting controversy.

Roetger was savagely mauled as he tried to shoot his 19th lion recently and hospitalized in Nairobi. For several weeks after the incident newspaper columns were full of condemnation for the hunter, who bragged he had a trophy room with 575 stuffed animals.

Roetger claimed he was helping to preserve wildlife through the high license fees he paid.

Strikers play

TRUCKS stand idle on the outskirts of Valparaiso, Chile, (top) as drivers play ping pong (bottom) during 44th day of nationwide truckers strike Friday. Pilots for the state airline walked off their jobs Friday, complicating the country's transport situation which is already semi-paralyzed by the strike. (UPI)

Strikes paralyze Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Housewives found it harder to buy food and basic goods Saturday as a growing wave of strikes swept Chile.

The government said it was going to cut off supplies from state-run industries to shopkeepers who remained closed on orders of the Central Chamber of Commerce.

Merchants have shuttered their doors since Monday in sympathy with a transport workers strike in its 44th day.

A severe wheat shortage was expected to come to a crisis by early next week and long lines of housewives formed at stores to try to get the last rationed bread and other supplies.

Drivers had to confront long lines at supply-short gasoline stations. Pilots for the state airline, LAN-Chile, grounded all of the company's national and international flights in solidarity with transport workers.

Engineers, pharmacists and supermarket personnel, announced continuing walkouts to protest President Salvador Allende's policies. Allende, a Marxist, leads a coalition of leftist parties that want to socialize Chile.

The Interior Minister, Carlos Briones, announced Saturday that national police would be assigned to protect stores that want to open. "In this manner, those merchants who currently have had to close their businesses because of pressure and threats can attend the public normally," he said.

Government plans to break the crippling transport strike have not yet been implemented. The government plans to make available 7,000 new vehicles to non-striking drivers.

But rank-and-file strikers have vowed to keep their vehicles—an estimated 45,000—disabled until "the government falls," according to Eitel Rosenkrantz, a trucker who is second in command at the Renca Alto concentration of striking drivers.

Bomb hits London station

LONDON (UPI) — A bomb that police said might have been set by the IRA exploded in London's Victoria railway station Saturday only minutes after about 1,000 travelers had fled the area, police said.

But five persons were injured as the blast in the commuter ticket office brought down the ceiling and shattered windows, a Scotland Yard spokesman said.

Four of the injured were allowed to go home after treatment at Westminster hospital but one man was kept for observation.

Police said the bombing might be part of a series of attacks blamed by Scotland Yard on the Irish Republican Army (IRA).

Scotland Yard explosives experts rushed to the scene, warning other police not to use their radios for fear of activating any other bombs.

The bomb explosion brought down the ceiling of the ticket office and blasted out the windows. It exploded three minutes after an alarm was given and the station cleared, police said.

News Of Servicemen

GOODING — Col. Donald A. Walbrecht, son of Mrs. Louise Walbrecht, Gooding, recently assumed duties as vice commander of the 9th Strategic Reconnaissance Wing at Beale AFB, Calif.

The 9th SRW flies the SR-71, the Air Force's reconnaissance aircraft capable of flying at over 80,000 feet at speeds of 2,000 miles per hour and above.

The 41-year old colonel is a graduate of the University of Idaho at Moscow where he earned a bachelor's degree in psychology, and the George Washington University, Washington D. C. where he earned a master's degree in public administration.

Colonel Walbrecht is married to the former Lucey Cathy of Bald Knob, Ark., and lives on base with his two children.

BUHL — Second Lt. Riel V. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newell W. Johnson, Route 4, Buhl, has been awarded his silver wings at Laredo AFB, Tex., upon graduation from U. S. Air Force pilot training.

Following specialized training at Castle AFB, Calif., he will be assigned to Grissom AFB, Ind., for duty with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

The lieutenant, a 1965 graduate of Buhl High School, received a B. A. degree in accounting in 1972 from Utah State University where he was commissioned through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program and is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha.

His wife, De Wynn, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Carter, Salt Lake City.

Top dog

ROD SMITH, Buhl, received the best of show award from Mrs. Mike Mulligan, superintendent of the dog show at the Twin Falls County fair this year, for his basset hound.

District 4-H fair opens on Wednesday in Jerome

BUHL — Gary M. Arford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin L. Arford, Route 3, Buhl, is among more than 1,000 cadets who have entered the U. S. Air Force Academy class of '77.

Gadet Arford is a 1973 graduate of Buhl High School.

JEROME — The annual South Central Idaho District 4-H Fair will be held Wednesday through Saturday at the Jerome County Fairgrounds.

Counties participating in the annual event include Jerome, Blaine, Elmore, Gooding, Lincoln, Camas, Twin Falls, Cassia and Minidoka. Over 300 4-H members from the nine counties are expected to compete in the four day event.

Sharon Allred, extension home economist, said that Jerome will be in charge of the food division with Gooding in charge of clothing, Blaine, Lincoln and Camas will be in charge of the miscellaneous home economics projects.

Twin Falls will be in charge of the style revue and Cassia and Minidoka will share the duties of the judging contest and home economics demonstrations.

Mrs. Allred said each county is allowed to enter three blue ribbon winners of a project or those that the judge feels are qualified.

She added that all blue ribbon dress revue winners are eligible to compete.

Also two teams are eligible from each county for livestock and home economics judging contests and each county can send those who the judge designates as eligible for home economics and agricultural demonstrations.

Shoshone club hears governor

SHOSHONE — District Rotary Governor, Lou Bettilyon, Salt Lake City, made his official visit to the Shoshone club Wednesday.

He told his views concerning the ideals and objectives of the Rotary club program.

He commended the Shoshone club for projects they have underway and quality of leadership by members.

Emphasis was placed on the drive inside of man to do service for others by Bettilyon.

"Community service is the rent we pay for the space we occupy on earth," he said, and "this is a time for action."

Gooding Rotarians who attended the special meeting were Lowell Chamberlain, Ed Koester and Reed Vestel.

Outstanding fair ends

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Writer

FILER — The 57th annual Twin Falls County Fair closed its gates late Saturday with all agreeing it had been an outstanding fair.

Fair board members had kept anxious eyes on the weather, and Friday's attendance was down a little from last year's because of winds and rain in the afternoon, but Saturday saw warmer weather.

The 4-H and FFA Fair Stock sale got underway Saturday morning in the beef barn, and the grand champion swine, owned by Jackie Chase, Twin Falls, sold for $2.25 a pound to Rangen, Inc., Hurd. The 216-pound animal brought its owner $480.50 for her year's 4-H work.

Tim Chadwick, Hollister, sold his grand champion steer for $1.40 a pound to Bill Workman Ford, Twin Falls. The animal weighed 1,003 pounds and brought $1,404.20 for its owner.

Chadwick, 13, was presented a plaque from the Idaho Hereford Breeders Association and a trophy from the Idaho Polled Hereford Association.

The young stockman had won the grand champion, polled Hereford steer award in the Big Western Standard of Perfection Show Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Shouse, fair secretary, manager and wife, were presented an appreciation plaque from Dave Chadwick, president of the Idaho Polled Hereford Association, during the show.

A Holstein dairy cow was auctioned off Friday afternoon in the beef arena. The 4-H County Agent wants to get a breeding animal project in 4-H cattle started and hoped to have more dairy animals entered for the sale next year.

The livestock feed and grain display in the produce building was a new one this year and created much interest, especially among livestock owners. Winners in the baled alfalfa hay were Leslie R. Jones, Twin Falls, first; Bill Brockman, Kimberly, second; and Mr. P. Custer, Twin Falls, third.

Ray Evers, Wendell, was first place winner in high moisture grain, followed by Allen Pierce, Castleford, second, and William Gerrard, Twin Falls, third.

The (M.S.) Multiple Listing Service won the Best in Originality award in the merchants displays and was awarded a plaque from Gary Black, fair board member. The D and G Automotive received the plaque for Best Produce Display from Mike Grey, vice president of the fair board.

A large variety of afternoon entertainment was offered fairgoers Saturday afternoon. Some watched the free horse show sponsored by the Filer Wranglers in the rodeo arena. Others gathered at the band shell to hear music by the Old Time Fiddlers, or went into the Tom Parks Pavilion to watch the 4-H Club special awards assembly.

Horney's Appaloosas won the trophy for the best decorated and cleanest kept horse stall, with trophy donated by Cook Electric Company.

Appreciation

DAVE CHADWICK, right, president of the Idaho Polled Hereford Association, presented an appreciation plaque Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Shouse, secretary-manager of the fairgrounds and his wife.

Land sale OK'd

BOISE — The State Board of Education voted Friday to authorize sale of 10 acres of land in Gooding owned by the State School for the Deaf and Blind.

Supt. Edward Reay wrote the board telling it the land would not be used in the future by the school and it should be sold so it could return to the tax rolls.

Hearing at Ketchum

KETCHUM — The Idaho State Interim Land Use Planning Committee will conduct a public hearing at 8 p.m. Monday at the Ernest Hemingway Elementary School.

The Ketchum hearing is part of a series of such hearings which are being conducted throughout the state.

Hailey man charged

HAILEY — Clarence Mansfield, 22, Hailey, has been charged with first degree burglary in connection with the theft of cash and goods from the Mini-Mart.

According to Hailey Police Chief Doug Williams, Mansfield was arrested Thursday night by a Ketchum Police Department officer on a Hailey warrant.

Williams said $53 in cash and an undetermined amount of beer were taken from the Mini-Mart Wednesday night.

Bumper crop

FILER — Gov. Cecil Andrus expects another bumper year for agriculture in Idaho in 1974.

The governor was in Twin Falls and Filer this week for the Twin Falls County Fair. He said that agriculture in Idaho has had a very good year, and he predicted that, barring any water problems, next year should prove to be another excellent year.

He urged everyone to start "thinking snow" so we have heavy snowfalls this winter to insure plenty of water for next year's crops.

decided to raise the price of the land, another source maintained. This, in turn, linked some councilmen, who rejected the new price.

Priced at $1,040 per acre, the 17-acre would cost the city $17,680, up $600 from the original option which the councilmen eventually accepted. The city's share of this cost increase would be $600, since it is responsible for 10 per cent of the funds for the sewer project.

"I think Hazelton would be in deep trouble," Alex Schaefer, water quality specialist for DECS, said regarding the possibility of the postponement of the construction of the new sewerage system.

Schaefer said he was "certain" the Hazelton secondary sewage treatment plant does not meet EPA standards and that the city would be "leaving itself open" to sanctions by the federal agency. The EPA could fine Hazelton and stop any more construction in the city until adequate sewer facilities are developed.

Because of the inadequate sewage treatment, DECS had effectively stopped for months the construction of the 48-unit housing development planned by the Eden-Hazelton Housing Authority. The Farmers Home Administration which is funding the project, had required DECS approval before it would supply the funds, FFA-Jerome County Supervisor Tony Humberach said.

Humberach said Hazelton approved the housing project and DECS also approved it about two weeks ago. He said the DECS finally approved the project, after many months delay, because the city was working on the development of a new sewer system.

Bill Wright, secretary for the Eden-Hazelton Housing Authority, said no problem should arise from hooking up to the now inadequate sewage treatment plant because the new plan would be ready just a few months after the planned completion of the 48-unit project in April.

Burley aides get raise

BURLEY — Burley city councilmen gave raises to themselves and the mayor in a special meeting Thursday night.

Mayor Garis Robertson had to break the votes on both motions to raise the salaries.

The mayor's salary, was raised to $900 from $700 a month. Councilmen salaries were raised to $150 monthly from $100.

The council had discussed the raises earlier but had delayed action until after the vote last week on the proposed change in city government.

The issue, voted on Wednesday, failed by a wide margin.

The vote on the pay raises for councilmen was tied before Robertson added his yes vote to those of Les Morgan, Sylvan Burgi and Cloyd Taylor. Councilmen Jim Roper, Jerry Vegwerf and John Craft voted no.

Roper, Vegwerf and Burgi voted yes on the increase in the mayor's salary, while Craft, Morgan and Taylor voted no. Robertson again broke the deadlock by voting yes.

The move was made at the special meeting because state law requires any increase in salary be approved 60 days prior to the general election, which is set for Nov. 6.

The raises, the first in eight years, according to Robertson, are effective Jan. 1.

They say they are able to get through heavy traffic and into areas automobiles cannot reach and in the event of an emergency can be available almost instantly. They have been patrolling fences to keep out those wishing to go over the fence rather than buy a ticket and have patrolled parking lots to protect vehicles from break-ins.

The two deputies, as well as other members of the sheriff's staff are working their regular eight-hour days and returning at night to work the fairgrounds until closing time. Their salary is no larger as they are paid per week regardless of the hours under present county policy.

Mounted police on duty

FILER — The county's only motorcycle police have been on duty at the county fair this year and will probably become part of the fair's law enforcement staff.

Deputies Jim Hopkins, Larry Webb and Wes Annis, who is a former deputy, have been working the fair grounds and roadways on their own motorcycles.

Bellevue studies extension plan

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

BELLEVUE — A request to extend waterlines and streets to serve planned new housing in southeast Bellevue was referred to the appropriate city council committees Thursday night.

Appearing before the council was John Tracy, Star-Mar Homes, said his firm had 10 lots in block 70 which would be built upon and will require future water service.

He also requested that Popular street be extended one block east and that Sixth Avenue be extended one block south to Walnut Street provide access to the property.

In other action the council stated they would have to charge the newly initiated $300 water connection fee for two of Tracy's clients rather than the original $50 fee. Tracy said both clients had committed themselves to construction in March and had obtained FHA loans which anticipated a $50 hookup fee.

Alderman John Pascoe said the connection fee was increased May 7 to cover costs for installing new water lines.

He said the problem was basically between Tracy and his clients.

Agreed to consult City Marshall Duane Dudley about a complaint by Mike McGraw, over a citation for driving on a newly called street. McGraw said his getting the citation was "discriminatory" because other persons had only received a warning. He told councilmen that Dudley did not see him cross the street.

Mayor Pete Johnson said the council had instructed Dudley to issue citations to anyone who crossed the new oil. He said he could contact Dudley to determine how many citations and how many warnings were given.

Tabled action on a recommendation by Alderman Joseph Bergin that salaries for city employees be increased. Bergin said he had "heard quite a few comments" that city employees were underpaid for the number of hours they work.

Johnson said increases in wages would require a mill levy increase and the city could not consider this until after the first of the year, when it receives additional revenue.

Heard Clerk Anna Faye O'Hanlon report that nine city volunteer firemen have received certificates of completion for a fire service practices course. Three other firemen previously completed the 30-hour course.

Judge affirms Gooding action on subdivisions

GOODING — District Judge Sherman Bellwood, Rupert, affirmed the action of the Gooding county commissioners in an opinion Friday afternoon approving two Hazelton Valley subdivisions.

Many area residents disputed the proposed subdivisions. In his decision, Judge Bellwood said the board of county commissioners has the executive duty to exercise its sound discretion within the law in approving or disapproving plats for county subdivisions.

"This court does not see a duty to question the wisdom of the actions of the county commissioners in performing their functions. There is insufficient evidence to support a finding that the county commissioners abused their discretion or acted capriciously or arbitrarily in approving the subdivisions in question."

"This court does not have the power nor authority to substitute evidence to support a finding that the county commissioners abused their discretion or acted capriciously or arbitrarily in approving the subdivisions in question."

"This court does not have the power nor authority to substitute its decision for the reasoned decision of the county commissioners."

The judge's decision followed a hearing on the subdivisions held Tuesday in Fifth District court in Gooding.

When contacted Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown, principal opponents to the subdivisions, said they will appeal the district court's decision and have a geological survey made of the subdivision area.

The Browns maintained during the hearing the county commissioners did not have sufficient information on possible damage to the environment before making their decision. They said a geological survey is necessary to determine all implications of the construction of the subdivisions.

The two subdivisions were proposed by Newton and Schaefer Twin Falls, and John LeMoine, Hagerman.

2 escapees back in jail again

TWIN FALLS — The "in again, out again" juveniles who escaped from the Twin Falls county jail Aug. 31 are back in custody today.

Sheriff Paul Corder said his office was notified by Power County officials that both of the 17-year-old Twin Falls boys were taken into custody there early Saturday.

They were allegedly arrested in American Falls when found breaking into automobiles in a parking lot.

The two allegedly escaped from the Twin Falls county jail by punching a hole in the ceiling of their fourth floor cell and then climbing to the roof. The officers said apparently scaffolding attached to the top of the building for cleaning purposes was used to reach the ground.

Late last Saturday, one of the boys voluntarily turned himself in to officers, but he walked away from the Twin Falls city police station a few days later after he was allowed to take a shower.

One of the boys' mothers notified Sheriff Corder and city police Saturday morning that she believed her son had gone to American Falls with the other youth.

American Falls officers were contacted and it was found the boys were in custody there.

Sheriff Corder said they will be returned here when Power County officers are ready to release them. Corder said Saturday the Power County officials had not determined what charges or action would be taken there.

Bellevue man's release okayed

HAILEY — Fifth District Judge Charles Scoggin Thursday ordered release from the Idaho State Penitentiary with a three year probation for Barry W. Shipman, Bellevue.

Shipman had been sentenced May 14 by Judge Scoggin to a maximum sentence of three years on an involuntary manslaughter charge and a maximum of five years for each of two counts of first degree burglary, with the sentences to run concurrently. The court retained jurisdiction for 120 days.

Shipman had earlier pleaded guilty to the charges. Public defender Stratton Laggis requested the probation to enable Shipman to attend trade classes at the College of Southern Idaho, Twin Falls.

The involuntary manslaughter charge stemmed from a July 16, 1972, automobile accident south of Ketchum which resulted in the death of James E. Stricker, Hailey. The burglary charges were from June 20, 1972, burglary at the Sawtooth Cycle Shop and a July 14, 1972, burglary at the House of Sight and Sound, both Hailey.

In other cases before the court Thursday:

Judge Scoggin ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Steven N. Hasterlik, Great Falls, Mont., after Hasterlik pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of delivery of a controlled substance, amphetamines.

The charge had been made in connection with an incident April 10 in Bellevue. Judge Scoggin set Sept. 27 for sentencing.

Judge Scoggin ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Scott Myers, Ketchum, after Myers pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of possession of a controlled substance, marijuana, which was made in connection with an incident March 5 in Ketchum. Sentencing was set for Sept. 27.

In the separate cases, Hasterlik was represented by Robert Korb, Ketchum, as a private attorney, and Myers was represented by Korb, acting as public defender. The state was represented in the three cases by Blaine County Pros. Atty. Stephen W. Roller.

Hazelton treatment plant held up

But, Hazelton Councilman Ellsworth Hensley said "it may be a couple of years" before the new sewer system can be constructed because of a "hang-up" on buying the land. He refused to detail the cause of the delay. When asked if priority on federal and state grants might be jeopardized, however, he said, "this may be the case."

DECS Director of Air and Water Pollution Programs, Lee Stokes said he does not believe the land negotiation tie-up would affect Hazelton's priority on the grants unless it drags on for a couple of years.

Hensley said Dean Howard who owns the 17-acre proposed construction sites, raised the price on the land after the council had agreed to buy it at $1,000 per acre. He said Howard probably thought he had the council "over a barrel" when he raised the price to $1,040 recently. He said the council would resist the price rise.

Saying it would jeopardize negotiations, Hazelton Mayor Elmer Pine refused to describe what he also called the "hang-up" on buying the land. Pine refused to let the Times-News set the minutes of recent public council meetings in which the negotiations were reportedly discussed. He admitted the minutes are public record, but said the negotiations should not be publicized.

Howard said he offered the land to the city at $1,000 per acre six months ago. Even though the price was low the council stalled, he said. This summer, Howard said, he raised the asking price to $1,040 per acre. He said Pine accepted. The new price was then refused by the council.

Other sources said two members of the council objected to the original $1,000 price and favored condemnation of the land in hopes of getting it at a lower price. When the council finally agreed to purchase the land at $1,000 per acre, an option had run out, according to one source. Disturbed by the delay, Howard

Businessmen to spend more

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Businessmen plan to increase spending for plant and equipment by 4.2 per cent between July and September and an additional 2.5 per cent in the last three months of the year, the Commerce Department said Thursday.

The expected third quarter gain in capital spending would bring outlays to an annual rate of $101.9 billion. If spending plans hold true for the rest of the year, plant and equipment outlays in 1973 would be 13.2 per cent ahead of 1972.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Savings bond redemption in August, the all-time high in August, the Treasury Department said Thursday.

Redemptions, the value of bonds cashed in, totalled a record $543 million last month compared to $395 million in August, 1972.

Sales of E and H bonds in August reached $567 million compared to $662 million a year earlier.

This resulted in a net sales of only $24 million as opposed to $167 million in August, 1972.

Series E and H bonds now pay 5 1/2 per cent annual interest if held to maturity. In recent weeks, however, yields on short-term treasury bills have reached 8 per cent and certificates of deposit sold by banks and thrift institutions have also commanded rates well above the return on savings bonds.

Last June, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz asked Congress to repeal the interest rate ceiling on savings bonds. The idea received a frosty reception from the House Ways and Means Committee.

Personal income in Arizona rose from $5,062,000,000 (b) in 1968 to $9,040,000,000 (b) in 1973, an increase of 90.4 per cent, the Valley National Bank of Arizona reports.

Dry August hits Snake

BURLEY — Carlos Randolph, superintendent of the Minidoka Project reports that August was a "dry" month on the Upper Snake River Watershed.

He said Island Park was the only reporting station that received average precipitation in August. The dry trend is continuing according to Randolph.

His report states that active reservoir storage capacity in the system is 3,984,622 acre feet of water. Present storage is 1,585,100 acre feet, about 40 per cent of capacity.

Reservoirs and their stored water contents in acre feet include Island Park, 76,650; Jackson Lake, 661,489; Pallasades, 602,135; American Falls, 140,870; and Minidoka, 94,370.

Randolph said the river is being regulated in a conservative manner to permit as much carryover of water in the storage system this fall as possible, with a little over one month remaining in the 1973 irrigation season. It appears water will be available to mature all crops, according to Randolph. He said prudent use of the water continues to be important.

Gem harvest eyed

BOISE — Fall harvest operations in Idaho made rapid progress under ideal weather conditions during the last week of August according to a report by the Statistical Reporting Service, Boise.

According to the report, combining of winter wheat was 95 per cent completed statewide, with spring wheat and barley past the three-quarter mark.

Most of the grain harvest activity was in the eastern portions of the state where ideal weather brought rapid crop maturity. About 15 per cent of the dry beans in southern areas of the state are harvested.

Potato digging is underway in southwest counties, but only a few fields have been harvested in other areas. Crop development was good during the week.

Cutting of the state's crop of sweet corn for processing is past the three-quarter mark.

Onions are beginning to go into storage as some outlets for immediate shipment are still being supplied by the delayed harvesting of the crop in the southwestern states.

In southwestern Idaho fruit areas the prune harvest was past peak levels. In those areas, early variety apples are being picked and pear and plum harvesting are active.

Preparation of the ground for seeding of winter wheat is getting underway. Some fields are being seeded, but the dry northern areas need rain before seeding becomes general.

Recent rains and cooler weather were helpful, but the shortage of dryland forage supplies continued in northern areas. Calves are coming off ranges at lighter than normal weights. Cattle are moving off southern Idaho ranges earlier than usual.

Spud crop drops

BOISE — According to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, 1972 crop Idaho potatoes processed in the state and Malheur County, Ore., totaled 45,565,000 hundredweight.

The amount was two per cent less than the record 46,311,000 cwt processed from the 1972 crop.

About 50 per cent of Idaho's 1972 production of 77,295,000 cwt was used by processors in these areas. This compares with 60 per cent of the 1970 and 1971 crops and 50 per cent in 1968 and 1969.

Fresh market sales of 17,700,000 cwt from the 1972 crop were the largest since the 1963 crop and accounted for 23 per cent of the 1972.

All sales from the 1972 crop totaled 68,999,000 cwt, or 89 per cent of production compared with 68,360,000 cwt, and 88 per cent of the 1972 production.

In addition to the Idaho grown potatoes, processors in Idaho and Malheur County, Oregon, utilized 3,650,000 cwt of 1972 crop potatoes grown in other states, compared with 3,631,000 cwt, from the 1971 crop.

Potatoes processed from the 1972 crop in the two-state area totaled 49,215,000 cwt, about one per cent less than the 49,942,000 cwt.

Meat produce hiked

BOISE — The Statistical Reporting Service, Boise, reports July red meat production was 14 per cent above July 1972.

Included in the report are figures for beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton.

According to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, both the number of cattle slaughtered and the average live weight were above levels of a year ago, resulting in a 17 per cent increase in the total live weight.

The hog kill was down 20 per cent. Partially offsetting the decrease was the six-pound increase in weight per hog.

The number of sheep slaughtered in the state during July was 27 per cent greater than a year earlier.

Total red meat production for July was 25.6 million pounds. The cumulative seven month production of red meat was 155 million pounds, a record for the January-July period.

REDUCE BRUISING because of soft-molded chain, cushioned flutes, ribbed rollers and a flexible loading boom

INCREASE HARVEST RATE: Optional 3 speed transmission independent of ground speed permits potato flow at faster rates.

HAVE BETTER FIELD PICKUP: Numerous options assure proper feeding; digger chain speed adjustable to soil conditions

GET CLEANER HARVEST: Hall-Way's chain deviner eliminates costly foreign materials and because the deviner goes all the way across the machine, bruising is at a minimum. Soft-molded rib rollers on sloped upper roller table facilitate quick soil, clod and foreign matter removal

FILER — The Hollister Grange won the plaque for best artistic arrangement at the Twin Falls County Fair.
Their display carried out the Senior Citizen theme with a gold-framed picture of an elderly man and woman in rocking chairs. The display was set off on a red background and had the motif "Jewels of Life — Our Senior Citizens."
The Twin Falls Grange placed second and the Fairview Grange, third, in the best artistic arrangement class.
Lucerne Grange won the special award for the best depiction of the fair theme, and also placed first in best original arrangement and general appearance. This display used the theme "When I Was a Boy" and showed a man and woman, rocking in their chairs on each side of a small pot-bellied stove.
Cedar Draw Grange was second and Filer Grange third in the best original arrangement and general appearance class.
Cedar Draw Grange placed first in the quality class, followed by the Twin Falls Club, namely Hernias.

Grange in second and Fairview Grange in third. The winning display featured a farmer trying to pull a stubborn cow with a rope while a neighbor farmer watches. A sign proclaims both men as belonging to the Senior 4-H Club.
Hemorrhoids, heartburns and headaches.
Diane Miller, Twin Falls, received the "Pete Creed" plaque, awarded by the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. to the outstanding junior gardener.
Sandra Yoder, Filer, was second place winner. This department had 42 juniors who entered their produce for competition. Miss Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller, has been in the junior garden competition every year since it began.
Mrs. John Moore, Kimberly, again was high winner in the kitchen, and pantry department, receiving 12 blue ribbons for cakes and four red ones. She also won seven blue ribbons in breads and four red ones.
Joyce Gee, Hansen, received a special award for a decorated cake which carried out the senior citizen theme. Mrs. Paul Miller, Twin Falls, was high point winner in the canning classes, followed by Mrs. George Kimmel and Mrs. Ben Mail, both Filer. New in the kitchen department this year are the purple ribbons which are given to best of a class.

Merry Pet

Linda Merry, DVM

Question: What would cause my year-old spayed female dog to stand with her tongue hanging out like she is hot when the temperature in the house is only 70 degrees? Could she possibly have a bad heart? Her heart pounds so hard after she gets excited or plays. She is small, only 11 pounds in weight.

Answer: She could be hot if she's wearing a long fur coat in 70 degree weather.

Remember that dogs "perspire" by "transpiration" of water from the tongue. She could have a respiratory problem. Or she could have a bad heart. Too many people equate "bad heart" with "old heart."

Dogs can be born with heart defects or develop them early in life. Being "young at heart" isn't always healthy. I'd have her checked by her veterinarian, then follow his advice whether it's for a haircut or an EKG.

Question: I've got a weird problem. Is there anyway to get a cat to do his business outside when he's been trained to use a sandbox? Our cat waits until he is waterlogged then streaks into the house to use the box.

Answer: If Mama cat "box-trained" him it can be virtually impossible to change his mind. Somehow, what a mother cat instills in kittens is permanently accepted as the only right and proper way.

I did once correct this on a balky "box" cat by choosing one spot in the yard and emptying the sandbox there for a month or so. When he was introduced to that area he decided (because of the smell) that it was a great glorified sandbox. I never saw him use another spot, however.

Don't know if it would work for your cat but it might be worth a try.

Question: I have a mother cat that had five kittens. They have been weaned and given away, but she acts like she doesn't feel well. She is so thin. I give her the best of food, milk, water, and a high protein cat chow, but she doesn't look good. Has she got some kind of disease I don't know about?

It is a Siamese cat that was given to me and is a very friendly cat. I hope you can tell me what could be the trouble.

Answer: She may have "female trouble." Distortion of the birth canal and cervix may have permitted an infection to enter and cause a metritis (inflammation of the uterus) or pyometra (a uterus full of pus).

Nicklaus, Weiskopf share golf world series lead

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus put on rubber pants and waded into a lake to blast out a shot and save a penalty, but that wasn't enough to hold off Tom Weiskopf's comeback and the two finished the first round of the World Series of Golf in a tie for the lead Saturday.

Both Nicklaus, who has won more major championships than any player in history, and Weiskopf had one-over-par 71 — two strokes in front of Johnny Miller. Tommy Aaron struggled home with a 76.

The four-man field in golf's most exclusive tournament, which brings together the winners of the four major championships, looked most of the day like a bunch of weekend hackers rather than some of the world's greatest players.

For instance, only Masters champion Aaron was able to put his drives on the fairways more than half the time. The four-man field in golf's most exclusive tournament, which brings together the winners of the four major championships, looked most of the day like a bunch of weekend hackers rather than some of the world's greatest players.

Dodgers drop ninth straight

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jerry Morales doubled in two runs in the 11th inning and scored on John Grubb's single to carry the San Diego Padres to a 9-6 victory that sent the Los Angeles Dodgers to their ninth straight defeat Saturday night.

Derrel Thomas led off the 11th with a single and Clarence Gaston sent him to third with a pinch single. Before Morales doubled and took third on the throw to the plate as two runs scored.

Steelers shut out Atlanta

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steelers parlayed their vaunted defense with a strong offense Saturday night to blank the Atlanta Falcons 19-0 in the pre-season finale for both teams.

Linebacker Jack Ham recovered a fumble by quarterback Dick Shiner on the Atlanta 10 in the opening minutes of the second quarter to set the stage for the Steelers' first score. Frenchy Puaia ran 12 yards around right end and on the next play hit right guard for a score from the seven.

The Steelers marched 87 yards for another score midway in the period, culminated by Larry Bradshaw's eight-yard pass to wide receiver Ron Shanklin with three seconds remaining in the first half. Roy Gerela on a second attempt kicked a 33-yard field goal to give the Steelers a 16-0 lead.

Bengals nip Packers at buzzer

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Horst Muhlmann kicked a 31-yard field goal with three seconds remaining to lift the Cincinnati Bengals to a 13-10 victory over the Green Bay Packers in the final exhibition game for both teams Saturday night.

Muhlmann's field goal capped a desperation Bengals' drive that started on their own 29 yardline with 1:50 to play.

Midway in the fourth quarter, Green Bay had rallied from a 10-3 deficit and tied the game on a one-yard touchdown run by second string fullback Perry Williams.

Cincinnati converted two first half pass interceptions into their first two scores of the night — a one-yard run by rookie Charles Clark and a 20-yard field goal by Muhlmann.

Jets nip Eagles as gun sounds

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Bobby Howfield kicked a 24-yard field goal, his third of the night, as the gun sounded to give the New York Jets a 16-10 come-from-behind exhibition victory over the Philadelphia Eagles before 44,218 rain-soaked fans Saturday night.

Howfield's winning field goal was set up when Rich Sowell recovered an Eagle fumble on the Eagles' 19 yard line. The fumble came on the second play after the Jets had kicked off following an Al Woodall to Jerome Barkum — touchdown pass of 17 yards.

Howfield had first half field goals of nine and 30 yards and added the extra point after Barkum's score.

The Eagles jumped into the lead when Tom Dempsey kicked a 22-yard field goal and they seemed in control with veteran quarterback Roman Gabriel at the helm.

Davis runs Oakland past Bills

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (UPI) — Clarence Davis ran for touchdowns of 46 and 31 yards in the second half to give the Oakland Raiders a 17-7 victory over the Buffalo Bills in the exhibition finale for both teams Saturday night.

The Bills lost all six of their pre-season games, their worst showing since 1961, while the Raiders finished with a 4-1 record.

After a lackluster first half, highlighted by George Blanda's 18-yd field goal, Davis ran 46 yards off tackle to give the Raiders a 10-0 lead at 1:03 of the third quarter. The touchdown climaxed a 70-yard Oakland drive which took just four plays.

Early in the fourth quarter the Raiders drove to the Bills 30, but appeared to be stopped and Blanda missed on a 43-yard field goal attempt. However, an offside penalty against Buffalo gave Oakland a first down on the 31.

On the next play Davis carried up the middle for the score.

Saints nip Houston

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Rookie running back Howard Stevens ran 22 yards for a touchdown in the final period Saturday night to give the New Orleans Saints a 16-10 pre-season victory over the Houston Oilers.

The Saints also scored on Jeff White field goals of 17, 32 and 47 yards to break an eight-game losing streak.

For the Oilers, Bob Gresham ran for a 14-yard touchdown and Skip Butler kicked a 42-yard field goal.

The Oilers had two touchdowns called back in the game. In the first quarter, Ed Hargett passed 11 yards to Muck Alston, but Ron Saul was ruled guilty of holding.

Dan Pastorini threw a touchdown pass to Fred Willard in the fourth quarter, but that was called back when Dave Parks was guilty of interference.

First day leaders

GOODING — George Sweet of Caldwell and Dick Clements of Gooding took the leads in the first round of the Bob-Lyon-senior-golf tournament Saturday.

A total of 102 golfers about two thirds of them men, showed up Saturday and enjoyed a special dinner Saturday night.

Sweet carded a 72 to lead the gross division, followed by John Lemoyne of Hagerman at 75 and Shang Lenon, Boise, at 78.

In the net division, Dick Clements carded a 63 for a one-stroke lead over Speck Haslam, Twin Falls, Lemoyne and Bill Thomason, Shoshone, posted 65a for third.

NY drops Browns to remain undefeated

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Ron Johnson ran for two touchdowns Saturday night to lead the New York Giants to a 21-0 victory over the Cleveland Browns and a perfect 6-0 record in National Football League exhibition play.

Johnson punched across from the one on the first series of plays and again from the three in the third quarter, shattering his former teammates for 138 yards in 23 carries.

Randy Johnson played the first half at quarterback for the Giants and the first time he got the ball, moved the team 35 yards in 14 plays, with Johnson scoring at the mid-point of the first quarter.

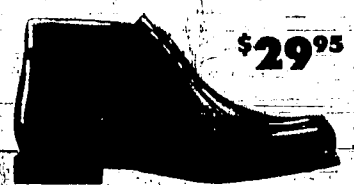

Cleveland kicker Don Cockroft missed a 44-yard field goal attempt in the second quarter before the Browns drove 58 yards in eight plays, with Mike Phipps passing five yards to Frank Pitts for a touchdown with three minutes to play in the half.

A key play in the drive came on fourth down with seven yards to go on the Browns 45, when Cockroft lined up in punt formation but threw a 31-yard pass to Charlie Hall down to the Giants' 24.

Court takes net title as Kodes surprises Smith

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Margaret Court, the veteran first lady of women's tennis, won her fifth U.S. Open Championship Saturday and indicated she'll be around for "a couple more years," while Wimbledon champion Jan Kodes upset Stan Smith to set up a men's final with former winner John Newcombe.

Mrs. Court won the first all-Australian women's final in the history of the championship, which dates back to 1887, by defeating Evonne Goolagong, 6-5, 7-6, 6-2, in a 140 thriller.

Newcombe, the Wimbledon champion, beat the veteran Ken Rosewall, 6-4, 7-6, 6-3, and Kodes, who was forced to save two match points, upset Smith, the joint No. 1 seed, 7-5, 6-7, 1-6, 6-1, 7-5, in a 2-hour, 50-minute marathon which was concluded in almost total darkness.

Nebraska humiliates UCLA behind sub quarterback

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Super quarterback sub Steve Runtz and sophomore 1-back

Tony Davis combined for four touchdowns on a wet and slippery artificial field Saturday to lead No. 2 ranked Nebraska to a convincing 40-13 victory over No. 8 rated UCLA.

Runtz, who got the opportunity to play game when regular David Humm suffered an arm infection and then a knee injury, completed nine of 11 passes for 105 yards, ran one yard for the Cornhuskers first touchdown and completed a 10-yard pass to split end Erasty Anderson for another TD.

Davis, whose knee required surgery last year and kept him out of the lineup, carried 24 times for 147 yards, plunged for one touchdown from the one, and ran 43 yards for another.

Deelo eops win over Shoshone

SHOSHONE — The Deelo Hornats scored early in the third quarter and late in the fourth to take a 12-0 non-conference win from the Shoshone Indians Friday night.

Shoshone fought off an early Deelo bid as it received the opening kickoff, saw two good runs nullified by penalties and then fumbled the ball away at its own 30. Deelo immediately drove down close but Shoshone held at the two-yard line and it was a stalemate through halftime.

In the second half, Deelo pounced on a fumble at the Shoshone 30-yard line and two plays later Gordon Webb broke free over right tackle and sailed into the end zone. Shoshone stopped the conversion play.

Deelo pulled out of reach with 15 seconds left when Robb Riding picked off an Indian aerial and romped 35 yards to make it 12-0.

Arizona belts Colorado State

PORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — Junior fullback Jim Upchurch ran for two touchdowns and 102 yards Saturday as Arizona unleashed a grueling ground game en route to a 31-0 victory over Colorado State in the 1973 Western Athletic Conference opener.

Upchurch scored on runs of three yards in the second quarter and 13 yards in the third period. The Wildcats also scored on a 27-yard fourth quarter run by Willie Hamilton, a seven-yard pass from third string quarterback Steve Castle to Mark Neal with 46 seconds to play, and a 10-yard field goal by Charlie Gorham in the first quarter.

Gorham also connected on all four extra points.

Colorado State's offense never even started to sputter as the Rams had minus-four yards rushing through the first three quarters and crossed their own 40-yard line for the first time with less than nine minutes to go.

Rockland topples Dietrich

ROCKLAND — The Rockland Bulldogs turned a second half pass interception and an 80 yard spring into touchdowns to bow into the Snake River eight-man conference with a 16-4 decision over Dietrich's Blue Devils Friday afternoon.

Rockland posted a safety in the first quarter and it stayed 2-0 until the third period when the stolen pass set the Bulldogs up on the 21-yard line. A pass from Walker to Dahle got the score and Rockland also converted.

Valley edges Hansen 8-0 in overtime

HANSEN — The Valley Vikings scored eight points in their overtime session Friday night to claim a grudging 8-0 decision over Hansen in the first time these two teams have met on the gridiron in many years.

Valley scored in four plays after the regulation time left the score 0-0. McDonald carried the first three times for nine and one-half yards and Lonnie Sellers then snuck in for the six points.

On Hansen's first play in overtime, Valley threw the Huskies for a seven-yard loss, and Hansen couldn't cover the 17 yards to get a chance for another tip.

The game was as bitter as the 0-0 deadlock indicated. Both teams punted nine times and Hansen's stats showed the Vikings with 41 nets yards while Hansen held 48.

The Vikings threatened in the second quarter, but were stopped after a first and goal just inside the 10. Hansen's best chance came when it was denied a fourth and two-foot drive in the third period.

Get lucky...at the preview of the

Rambling for Jerome

TIGER HALFBACK Bryon Lyons splits through Twin Falls defenders enroute to a 16-yard gain during action Friday night. Twin Falls won 19-8.

Twin Falls drops Jerome 19-8 in football opener

The Twin Falls Bruins accepted two easy touchdowns in the early going, then pulled out of reach on sophomore Mike Allison's 38-yard bolt in the third quarter to defeat the Jerome Tigers 19-8 Friday night.

Jerome fumbled the ball away three times in its first six plays, the last time at the two-yard line to present Twin Falls with the first score. Minutes later Craig Day picked off a deflected Jerome punt and went 33 yards to score. But Jerome steadied with a solid replay drive and it wasn't until Allison made it 19-8 that the Bruins had breathing room.

The Bruins stopped Jerome on fourth and one at the one with 52 seconds left to close out the other golden chance the Tigers had.

It was a hard-hitting battle and basically defense dominated. For the second straight year Jerome pretty well bottled up the Bruin offense with its linebacker crashing and stunting. Except for Jerome's scoring drive and the late thrust set up on a fumble by Ted Thomas, Jerome had similar trouble moving the ball. It ended up quite even, Jerome holding a 127 to 117 total offense edge.

Jerome's early fumbles set Twin Falls up at the 35 and then the 20 but in each case Jerome held — the second time on fourth and three at the three. But on the next play it fumbled again and Doug Macnamer pounced on it for Twin Falls. Two plays later Day plunged in from the two. Jerome blocked the point-after kick.

The second Twin Falls touchdown came three plays into the second period when tackle Brent Watson deflected the ball as it left Randy Kelly's hand. The ball spun off to the right where Day picked it off at shoot-up height at the 32 and sailed all alone into the end zone. Rod Finlayson converted.

Jerome rebounded immediately, starting with Tracy Camp's 20-yard kickoff return to the Tiger 44. Camp and Bryon Londs picked up 13 yards and Twin Falls added 15 more in penalties. After a four-yard loss on a fumble, Lyons shook away for 17 yards on a quick pitch, something that haunted Twin Falls all night, to the 15. Looking at a fourth and five from the 10, Kelly then hit Lenny Schelling with a quick look in pass that carried to the Bruin two and on his second attempt from three Kelly sneaked across. Lyons took an option pitch for the two points.

Twin Falls replied with a three first-down drive that fizzled at the Jerome 30 and all scoring ended four plays into the third period.

Mike Gatica returned the second half kickoff to the Bruin 46 and Allison belted for 13. After Bryant Rudd twice sneaked for three yards, he pulled out to Allison who, behind a two-wipeout block by Bill Miller, burst loose for his 38-yard decider.

Highland pulls away from Minico in last quarter 28-7

RUPERT — Highland's touted offensive machine finally wore down the Minico Spartans for two long scoring drives in the fourth quarter as the Rams opened defense of the Southern Idaho Conference championship with a 28-7 victory Friday night.

Minico, giving the Rams a gift touchdown early in the second quarter, trailed only 12-7 going into the final period but then ran out of defensive gas.

Overall the Rams picked up 374 yards with Mike Falash throwing for 135 and Larry Kemp adding 66 on the ground. Minico's offensive statistics were impressive against the veteran Ram defense at 285 yards with Ritchie Donner passing for 106. Twice Minico held Highland inside the 10-yard line.

Highland pulled away in the first period when Falash and slotback Frosh hooked up on a 70-yard touchdown pass play. Frost getting the last 50 on the spring. Early in the second period, the Rams intercepted a Minico pass and ground to a first down at the Minico five. The Spartans held for four downs but then fumbled the ball back on their offensive play. Two plays later Kemp went in from the five.

Minico rebounded smartly. Donner and Pat Warburton hooking up on a 47-yard scoring pass play and Scott Morehouse tucked on the point.

After a scoreless third quarter, Highland began its punishing ground drives and sent Kemps across from the four and Wellared from the one. Kemp and Falash added two point conversions each.

Harper sparks Burley past Kelly 27-8

BURLEY — Senior fullback Ken Harper scored three times and added three extra points Friday night as the Burley Bobcats dropped the Bishop Kelly Knights 27-8 in what had to be considered a mild upset.

Kelly, which entered the year ranked with Bonnaville as the A-3 power in the state and helped prove it by tying the Bears last week, couldn't take the ball away from Coach Bob Mathews' charges. The Bobcats held possession most of the time, sustaining long marches on two of the scores.

Harper, who also does the Bobcats kicking, wound up with 126 yards rushing as Burley was able to get him outside more easily than expected.

Burley took the opening kickoff and just about the entire first quarter in sustaining a drive to the Kelly three-yard line. Harper belted in from there and added the two extra points.

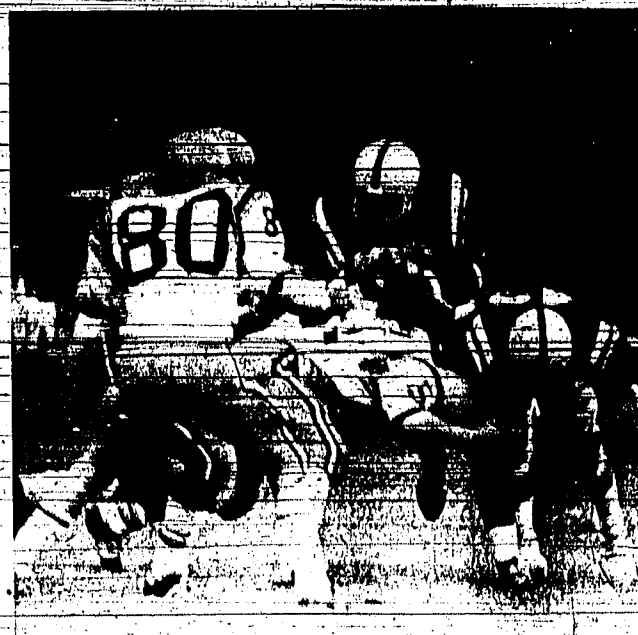

Early in the second period, the Bobcats recovered a fumble on the Knight's 20 and four plays after that Harper went in from the four.

Kelly rebounded with its only drive of the evening immediately after, breaking the shutout on a 22-yard pass from Brunell to Thacker.

Kelly made another move in the third quarter taking the kickoff and driving to the Burley 30 before running out of downs. Burley then finished up the quarter with a 70-yard march that ended when Ed Rasmussen threw a seven-yard touchdown pass to Richard Felcher.

Burley's last score came on another drive, helped twice by penalties against the Knights. Harper capped that from the two and then booted the point after.

The Bobcats' defense was hurt for the rest of the season when two-year starting middle linebacker Jim Gee sustained a knee injury and underwent surgery immediately after the game.

End of the line

HEMMED IN, Wood River's Randy Collier comes to the end of a short run against Salmon in non-league play Friday afternoon. The Wolverines shutout Salmon 26-0.

Mushers drop Carey for 20th straight

CAREY — The Camas County Mushers answered all questions as to their ability for a three-year dominancy Friday afternoon when they rolled past the Carey Panthers 40-0 for their 20th straight victory.

The Mushers, who have won the last two state eighth-main championship playoffs, showed a considerably smaller team than the past two years but the quickness of all members more than made up for it.

Carey given a chance to give the Mushers a battle, never was able to penetrate much beyond the Mushers 30-yard line.

Camas took the early lead when senior Layne Osborne scored on a 12-yard burst and minutes later Brent Gelsler crossed the goal line from 20 yards away. Neither conversion succeeded.

In the second period, Gelsler threw a 35-yard scoring pass to Larry Lee with Osborne converting and Osborne then ran the lead to 26-0 when he broke a 95-yard scoring dash.

The teams were scoreless in the third period but Bill Baldwin, on a one-yard dive, and Lee, from two out, added fourth period. Camas County scores. Gelsler converted after Baldwin's.

Wood River defense smothers Salmon for 26-0 decision

HAILEY — Wood River's sting defense gave the Salmon Savages the shutout news early and the offense romped for four touchdowns in a 26-0 non-conference victory Friday afternoon.

Wood River's shutout was never in jeopardy as the Savages couldn't move the ball. Meanwhile, Coach Dale Blakeley's Wolverines slashed at Salmon with some small but quick backs and ran up a big statistical advantage.

After a scoreless first quarter, Wood River mounted a 60-yard drive in the second period which senior Randy Collier capped from a year away. Allen Patterson booted the point after.

Salmon had to punt immediately after the kickoff, the ball traveling only 17 yards to the Salmon 47. Wood River picked up most of the yardage on a throwback pass to quarterback Tim Martin and three plays later Martin rolled out for the final yard and six points.

The third quarter opened in a punt exchange with Salmon again coming up short, getting the ball just to midfield. After a first down, Patterson broke off tackle on a 32-yard sprint and came back on the next play for two yards and the third Wood River score.

Reserves took over for the fourth score, the big play being a 28-yard pass from Mallea to Showalter which overcame a second and 24 situation and set the Wolverines up on the Salmon fourth yard line. Two plays later Ralph Shirts went in from the three and Steve Houston booted the extra point.

Richfield tops Bliss

RICHFIELD — The Richfield Tigers, stung by a sudden 14-point deficit, took control over the last three quarters Friday afternoon to defeat the Bliss Bears 34-14.

Bliss struck hurriedly, Butler taking a 65-yard pass in the opening minutes and only seconds later scored again when Rod Hess picked off a Richfield pass and went 25 yards to score. Hess also added the two-point.

But Mike Robinson steadied Richfield in the second period when he shook loose on a 40-yard scoring "scamper" and Harvey Brauburger added the two points.

In the third quarter Robinson pulled Richfield even on a seven-yard run and Brauburger sent the Tigers ahead with the conversion dive.

From that point on Dave Brown figured prominently in the Richfield attack. He threw touchdown passes of 48 and 14 yards to Ken Pier and then added the final score on a 60-yard romp up the middle. Brauburger converted on the third touchdown.

Murtaugh rallies past Kimberly 7-6

MURTAUGH — Junior Doug Perkins drilled a crucial point after conversion kick early in the fourth quarter that lifted the Murtaugh Red Devils past the Kimberly Bulldogs 7-6 in a game played as hard as the score indicated.

Murtaugh held the ball most of the first half — with Kimberly helping by getting two roughing the kick penalties — but the Bulldogs defense turned them back. Kimberly's deepest penetration was the Murtaugh 40 after a blocked punt.

But Holly Houfberg turned the game around as the second half opened, taking the kickoff and sailing 80 yards. The two-point run ended out of bounds.

It wasn't until 8:22 remained that Murtaugh got back and that after an interception by Wade Quesnell at the Bulldog 30. After two first downs — and looking at a third and 11 — Scott Perkins hit Quesnell on a slant in pass and Quesnell fell into the end zone.

INTERTHERM HOT WATER ELECTRIC BASEBOARD HEATING

PROVIDES HOT WATER HEAT WITHOUT COSTLY PLUMBING

More and more families — who plan to build new homes or remodel — are insisting on an INTERTHERM Hot Water Electric Baseboard Heating System. That's because the INTERTHERM blankets each room with soft, gentle, healthful warmth that only hot water heat can provide. And no worry about gas or fuel oil shortages. It takes the place of expensive-to-install, heat-wasting central heating systems of all types. And costs much less to install and maintain. Each heater contains a copper tube inside of which an electric heating element and a water and anti-freeze solution — which never needs replenishing — are permanently hermetically sealed. Electricity heats the water solution, which, in turn, heats the room.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Three generations ago the average groom was 4 years 6 months older than the average bride. Today the average groom is 2 years 6 months older than the average bride. Gentlemen, they're catching up.

No advertising salesman in his presentation to a prospective customer should overlook this curious fact: There are something like 25 mountains in Colorado which are higher than Pike's Peak. Now, sir, can you name one?

How do you account for the fact that precisely 6.6 per cent of all men are left-handed while only 3.8 per cent of all women can be so described? Most mysterious.

RAT MILK
It's not easy to milk a rat. You need a special rat milking machine. Question arises as to why somebody might want to milk a rat. Simple. The science boys use milk from inoculated rats come fresh to test various drugs. Don't know how big a string of rats a good hand can milk. Will check that out and report back.

O. Cleopatra supposedly dissolved a big pearl in wine, then drank it up chugalug, to show Marc Antony how rich she was. True?

A. Highly unlikely—Takes weeks for a pearl to dissolve in wine.

Scientific experiments indicate that a healthy young man's nerves in good working condition will carry their messages to the brain at a speed of 265 mile per hour.

HIGH HEAT
Miss, can you name what sort of food, when heated, can get the hottest and stay that way? It's a toad, I'm told, between cling peaches and chicken soup. Has something to do with the molecular structure. Syrup. Fat. Whatever. But it's said more tongues have been burned by those two comestibles than by just about anything, including coffee.

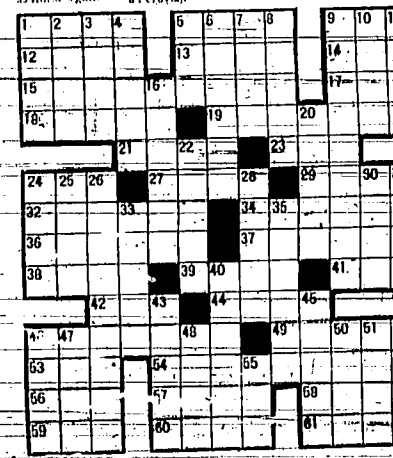

One out of every five arrested men set free by a bondsman jumps that bail. And bounty hunters go after that bail jumper, usually. Yes, bounty hunters. Scores of tough, wily fellows who aren't real members of any police force make their living apprehending fugitives for the bounties offered by bail bondsmen. Even today. And it is a most dangerous profession, don't you know.

Did I tell you Americans buy 600 million goldfish a year? That's twice the dog population, is that?

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to think in terms of what you can do for the good of humanity. Fine for getting out in the world of social graces and activities after being helpful to those in distress. Take the time to make long-range plans.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Fine day for showing friends kindness instead of expecting it from them. Engage in outside activities as much as you can. Retiring early is important so you can be fit for the new week.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The right day for philanthropic work you have been wanting to do for some time. You can be especially helpful to others now. Correspond with friends and let them know what's on your mind. Show that you have wisdom.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go to lectures where you can pick up inspiring ideas that can be helpful and profitable to you. A new friend can come into your life who can help you live a fuller, better life.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Tap your subconscious now and make notations that can be helpful to you later on. Your intuitions are very strong. Make a greater effort to please loved one. Use tenderness.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Showing appreciation to associates for their loyalty and helpfulness is wise today. Make new plans with them for the future. Spend more time with a loyal friend. Improve harmony at home.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Doing favors for relatives and good friends who have been kind and loyal to you makes this a very rewarding day. Deepen the affection for them, and vice versa. Take health treatments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can have a delightful day at whatever you enjoy doing the most. Engage in that creative activity that brings you real pleasure. Take time to show mate how much you value the alliance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) It is your duty to be with family today and it should also be your pleasure. Plan just how to please them more. Avoid one who wants to take you off on some tangent. Be more resolute.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Attend the services that do the most for the spiritual side of your life and be inspired for the future. Visit with relatives you like and even those you don't like. Be understanding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Talk with experts in business and informally find out how to become more successful in the days ahead. A good friend can also show you how to improve your holdings.

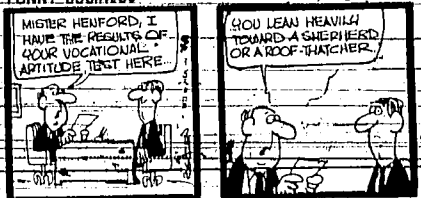

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can figure out exactly how to have greater happiness in business and personal affairs. Engage in social activity later in the day and make the right contacts. Be more cheerful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Early morning meditation can bring you the inspiration you need now for whatever it is you want to accomplish. Get together with experts in the field in which you are most interested.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those charming young persons who will often be thinking of the welfare of others. The education should be directed along such lines as politics, medicine and in the religious field. Going to college is a must. Teach to save money early in life for best results.

Buhl-miss marries Fehrmann

FILER — Carol Meyer and John Fehrmann were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony Aug. 24 in the Clover Trinity Lutheran Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Meyer, Buhl, and the bridegroom is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Walter Fehrmann, Altenburg, Mo. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's father before an altar decorated with baskets of orange, gladioli accented with greenery and orange bows.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a traditional wedding gown of candlelight silk organza over peau de soie, fashioned of original design. The long A-line skirt featured a bouffant back and an empire bodice enhanced with French imported lace and seed pearls. The gown had a high Victorian neckline, and sheer sleeves with lace caps and cuffs which were fastened with self-covered lace buttons.

The bride wore a lace Juliet cap which held her lace-bordered chapel length veil of English illusion. She carried a bouquet of green orchids accented with natural greenery and orange streamers.

Mrs. Mike Watts, Billings, Mont., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Brenda Meyer, sister of the bride, and Debbie Rosenkötter, Grand Island, Neb. Kristen J. Jaskierney was flower girl and carried a basket of orange petals.

Dave Jaskierney, Mason, Mich., served as best man and Dirk Van der Linden, St. Louis,

MR. AND MRS. JOHN FEHRMANN

Mo., and Mike Watts were groomsmen. Ushers were Eugene Schroeder, Buhl; Herman Lose, Louisville, Ky.; and Arthur Lose, Anchorage, Ky., uncles of the bride. Paul Jaskierney was ringbearer.

Debbie Lutz served as organist and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Alfred Briel, Evansville, Ind.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Mrs. Carol Jaskierney presided at the guest book table. Cindy Mueller distributed programs of the wedding service.

The bride's table featured her colors of orange and green. The wedding cake was cut by Mrs. Frank Krueger, Twin Falls, and served by Mrs. Wayne Jagels. Mrs. H. L. Blankenhorn, Joffestown, Ky., aunt of the bride, poured coffee, and Mrs. Ted Barnes, Jerome, aunt of the bride, poured punch.

Donna Mueller, Becky Johnston and Linda Rupprecht carried trays. Mrs. Orville Reinke was reception hostess and was assisted by the Lutheran Woman's Missionary League. Mrs. Donna Jones, Lucy Ficken and Tony Krueger were in charge of the gifts.

Special guests at the wedding were the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Meyer, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Phil Polster, Altenburg, Mo. Out-of-state guests attended from Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, Oregon, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Indiana and Washington, D. C.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley, the couple will reside in Springfield, Ill., where the bridegroom is a ministerial student in the Springfield Seminary.

Pre-nuptial showers honoring the bride were given by a college roommate, Debbie Rosenkötter, in Seward, Neb., and at the home of Mrs. Wayne Schroeder hosted by Donna Jones, Irma Roesler and Helen Ginther.

Couple weds in Nevada

TWIN FALLS — Kimberly Sue Story and Robert Lee Roush were married Aug. 19 in the Lake Tahoe Wedding Chapel, Lake Tahoe, Nev.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Raymond Love before white altar baskets of yellow and white roses.

The bride is the daughter of T. Sgt. and Mrs. K. W. Story, who reside in Fu Chu, Japan, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde N. Rosa, Twin Falls.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Scott, Huntington Beach and Westminster, Calif.

The bride, escorted by her grandfather, wore a floor-length, polyester sheer pastel garden print gown enhanced with a ruffled "V" neckline.

Beverly Ur, Lompoc, Calif., was bridesmaid. Ronald Roush, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Terry Bagley, Lompoc, Calif., served as groomsmen.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT L. ROUSH

After the ceremony, a wedding party at Harvey's "Top of The Stairs" Supper Club was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rosa.

The bride attended high school in Twin Falls and was graduated in 1971 at Lompoc High School. She attended and earned a degree in cosmetology at John's Beauty College. She is employed at the Hide-A-Way Salon and Beautique, Lompoc.

The bridegroom is assistant manager of Rowan's Men's Apparel Shop, Lompoc.

After a wedding trip through Nevada, the couple was married at a reception in their new home at W. Oak St. Lompoc.

Book Review

By MARILYN JARDINE
Twin Falls Public Library
TWIN FALLS — As she did in "The Crystal Cave" Mrs. Mary Stewart has used the Arthurian legends as a basis for a fascinating tale of suspense, magic and adventure, "The Hollow Hills."

Narrated by Merlin, healer, magician and sorcerer, the story begins with the events after the illegitimate conception of Arthur. King Uther later married Ygraine, Arthur's mother, and hoped for legitimate heir to the throne. Merlin, however, had foreseen that Arthur was to be the next King and persuaded Uther and Ygraine to let him assume the responsibility for the boy's safety and upbringing until the time came for him to be King.

Arthur was not to know his parentage, and his whereabouts had to be kept secret from his father's enemies. Because Merlin himself, as the boy's guardian, had also to remain in seclusion, he traveled to Eastern lands but kept aware of Arthur's activities through visions seen in the flames of many fires. When Arthur was nine, Merlin returned to Britain in the guise of a hermit holy man caring for the Green Chapel near the castle of Ector, Arthur's foster father.

In the course of his journey Merlin located the legendary sword which was later to prove Arthur's claim to the throne. Merlin spent the next four years assisting in Arthur's education and in waiting for the proper time to bring Arthur out of hiding and to his place as heir to Britain's throne. At the story's end Arthur learns his true heritage and, with the aid of Merlin and the sword, assumes his leadership of the armies of Britain.

The tale contains enough realism interwoven with the legend to make the reader almost believe that it really could have happened back in those dark and treacherous days when Britain was not yet a unified kingdom.

Free eyesight test now available for youngsters

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times News Writer
TWIN FALLS — Mail-order eyesight tests?

This may be the answer, say members of the Twin Falls Delta Gamma Alumnae Association, to reaching the many pre-school children who have never had their eyes tested.

This year the group of young mothers in Delta Gamma is undertaking a new method of getting children to have eye tests prior to the time they begin their education and while correction to eye problems can easily be made.

Delta Gamma Alumnae Association members have a large number of eye charts and eye test instructions they will mail on request to parents.

In this way, the test can be made at home and the results should give the parent a clue if a problem or difficulty exists and warrants a professional eye examination.

The kit will save the parent taking the child to a clinic for the examination and in the child's own home it is felt he or she will respond more naturally to the test.

Mrs. Ed Benoit is chairman of the project in Twin Falls and will be working with the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness in distributing charges and collecting information.

Clinics for Amblyopia testing will continue by the Junior Club and Delta Gamma members, but the mail kit designed largely for rural areas, are expected to take the tests to many not presently being tested.

Children from three to six years of age should be tested.

Mrs. Benoit points out. Mrs. Benoit said statistics nationally show one in every 20 children has some eyesight problem. If undetected these problems retard the child's progress in school and in physical activities and will become worse if not detected early.

"The test does not provide proof of an eye problem," she said, "but can point the need for a more thorough examination by a professional."

Statistics show only about 500,000 of the 16-million pre-school age children in the nation today have an opportunity for eyesight tests before they enter classrooms.

These mail kits are the standard Snellen Symbol E Chart and they come complete with step by step instructions any parent can easily follow at home.

The child reads the chart with each eye separately and with both eyes. If he or she sees the "E" upside down or if appears clear with the single eye but not with the two eyes together, the parent is forewarned.

A card accompanying the chart and a self-addressed envelope will give the Delta Gamma committee a report on the test and a record of the number of children tested and at what age the test was made.

Parents wishing to make the test should phone Mrs. Ed Benoit, or write for the kit, Delta Gamma Alumnae Assn., P. O. Box 752, Twin Falls, Idaho, 83301.

Statistics gathered by the local organization will be sent to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness as part of the nation wide program which is being tried for the first time this year and which will be continued if utilized by parents of small children.

"There is no charge for the kit. It is free for the asking," Mrs. Benoit said. "We hope to use up our present supply and have to order more."

Illustrate new kit

EXPLANATION of how the test works is given by Mrs. Bob Alexander to 5-year-old Lisa as they illustrate the new mail kits Delta Gamma Alumnae Assn. members are making available. It is part of a pre-school eyesight test campaign which makes home tests by the family possible.

First step

STEP ONE—Mrs. Alexander places the eye test chart on a wall while Lisa watches. Lisa will sit or stand 10 feet away to "read" the letters "E".

Cover one eye

STEP TWO—A small Dixie cup is used to show Lisa how to use the cup for an eye cover one eye at a time. Mrs. Alexander covers before reading the chart.

Reads chart

STEP THREE—Reading the chart, Lisa points the direction the E faces by placing her fingers in the same direction. If the child reads the third line correctly the eyes are average or better.

Checks form

STEP FOUR—Mrs. Alexander prepares to fill out the brief detachable test information form included in each kit. It will be mailed to the Delta Gamma Alumnae Assn. in an enclosed self-addressed form to show the test was given and the results obtained.

Noted writer turns out to be quite a prophet

By MIKE ROYKO
(c) Chicago Daily News
CHICAGO — Nelson Algren was relaxing at a table in one of Chicago's few outdoor cafes. I suggested we go inside because somebody recently discovered that outdoor cafes are illegal in Chicago, so we could not be sure a paddy wagon wouldn't show up to haul away the cafe and everybody in it.

There seemed to be some kind of logical relationship between the fact that in Chicago outdoor cafes are illegal. And in Chicago, Algren, maybe the greatest writer the city ever had, is not as well known or as highly respected as the TV weatherman.

But before I could figure out what it all meant, Algren cheerfully said he was mad about something. I asked him what it was.

"In 1946, I applied for a Guggenheim fellowship. I wanted to do research for a novel on the drug scene in Chicago. In my application, I had recommendations from Carl Sandburg and Ernest Hemingway. Do you know what they did? They turned me down."

Well, I could see how Algren could have felt in 1946. He was poor, unknown, but tremendously talented writer. Those are the kinds of artists the Guggenheim Foundation says it wants to help with a little money.

But wasn't 27 years a long time to brood about it? After all, the book he planned — "The Man With the Golden Arm" — was written anyway, without the Guggenheim help. And it established him as a major literary figure.

"Oh, I wasn't mad about it then," Algren said. "I was used to being turned down. They had already turned me down five more years after that. So I wasn't mad."

Then why was he mad now?

"Because I read that in 1946 the Guggenheim Foundation gave a fellowship to E. Howard Hunt."

The Mr. Hunt, of Watergate fame?

Algren nodded. "The same year I didn't get it. Maybe I should have put on my application that I wanted to do research into lock-picking and transom-peeping."

I asked Algren if he had ever read any of Hunt's literary efforts. Although he is now widely acclaimed as one of Mr. Nixon's best burglars, he did write many books while a CIA agent. Most of them were cheap thrillers, written under pen names.

"I've never seen one," Algren said. "Maybe I should. Then I might finally understand what kind of talent the Guggenheim people were looking for."

Later in the day, while I was riffling through some very old news clippings on Algren, preparing to write about the Guggenheim business, I came across a book review Algren had written in 1942.

I immediately phoned him, and said: "You said you had never read one of Hunt's books."

"That's right," Algren said.

"What about the one you reviewed in 1942?"

"I reviewed?" He was genuinely astonished.

And he had. That's when he was even poorer than in 1946. He sometimes reviewed books for newspapers, which then paid about $2 a review. This one appeared in the old Chicago Sun.

The book was called "East of Papez," and it was apparently one of the few books Hunt signed his own name to.

"What did I say about it?" Algren asked.

I read him a few paragraphs. They are more interesting today than they were in 1972.

It began:

"This is probably the first novel about this war by an American who actually helped fight it. The author is a destroyer man with the North Atlantic Patrol."

Although it had a few good points, Algren went on to say it wasn't a very good novel.

"The review ended with these words:

"Mr. Hunt feels that the responsibility for a Democratic peace, this time belongs to the men who do the actual fighting. There is a jarring note throughout the book which makes me wonder whether the author is willing to go all the way with this conviction."

"Not even the conditions under which the book was written lessened this reader's irritation at the author's attitude toward the Negro."

"Its persistence throughout the text lends an incongruous note to the voice of a man actively absorbed in a war for Democracy and hoping for a Democratic peace."

End of review.

Algren thought for a moment, then said:

"I guess I was a prophet."

I'm sure Daniel Ellsberg and his psychiatrist would agree with that.

GF miss, Thompson say vows

GLENN'S FERRY — Trina Garner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Garner, Glens Ferry, became the bride of Chris Eric Thompson in rites Aug. 22.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Thompson, King Hill. The ceremony was performed by Capt. Gordon Kloehn, Lutheran chaplain at the chapel at Mountain Home Air Force Base. Sgt. David Bipes was organist.

The bride, given by her father, wore a white afternoon dress enhanced with a garter and had a penny in her shoe. The bridal corsage was of small yellow and white daisies.

Kathleen Robick, Boise, was maid of honor. Lisa Thompson, King Hill, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid.

William Schamacher, Hammett, was best man, and James Hongland, Glens Ferry, served as groomsman.

The reception after the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over white linen and centered with a three-tiered cake baked and decorated by Mrs. L. A. Thurman, Glens Ferry. The cake was decorated with white and yellow daisies topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, in an archway of white wedding bells. Yellow and white daisy bouquets were in the room.

Mrs. Chris Chrysler, Mountain Home, sister of the bride, served coffee. Mrs. William Owings Sr., sister of the bride, Mtn. Home, cut and served the cake. Gloria Owings and Mrs. William Owings, Jr., both nieces of the bride, served the punch. Mrs. Gary Sanders, Glens Ferry, was in charge of the guest book and arranged the gifts.

After a brief honeymoon, the bridegroom left for New London, Conn., Naval base where he will attend submarine school.

The bride, a 1973 Glens Ferry High School Graduate, will stay in Glens Ferry with her parents for the time being.

Tryouts slated

DIANNE HICKERSON, left, president of Little Theatre, and Karen Dalton, secretary, prepare for tryouts for the group's fall production, "Come Blow Your Horn," Nov. 7-10. Tryouts are set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday in the Y building. Proceeds from the first night's show will go to the Y swimming pool project. Roy Nicholson will direct the play.

Gymkhana set in KH

KING HILL — The Three Island Riding Club gymkhana will be held September 16 at 1:30 p.m. at the arena and on the south side of the railroad tracks.

A quarter admission will be charged per contestant. There will be seven events—western pleasure, ring race, clover leaf barrels, cow-hide race, pole bending, key-hole race and an obstacle course race.

Ribbons will be presented for the first three place winners in each event.

Hollister ceremony unites area couple

HOLLISTER — Susan Maureen Fleenor and Michael Lynn Gates were married in a double ring ceremony Aug. 18 in the Hollister Presbyterian Church, the first wedding ceremony at the church in over 20 years.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Fleenor, Hollister, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gates, Nampa.

Rev. H. B. Thomas conducted the ceremony. Judy Troyer, Parma, was matron of honor. Heather Dowd, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Douglas Gates, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Doug Scott and Randy Williamson, brothers-in-law of the bride, were ushers. John and Jim Fleenor, brothers of the bride, were candlelighters.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley, the couple resides at 213 S. Front St., Lewisburg, Pa., where the bridegroom is employed by Joy Manufacturing in an air pollution control project. The bride is a graduate of Flier High School and the College of Idaho. The bridegroom is a graduate of Nampa High School and the University of Idaho.

got all about the convention and marked his partner with three aces. Hence, his only problem was to decide between seven spades and seven no-trump.

As soon as the dummy hit the table the Professor knew what he had done, but a heart had not been opened and there was always hope.

He won the first trick with his king of diamonds, drew trumps with two leads and promptly took a club finesse. When that succeeded it was all over, but the mopping up.

The Professor cashed the ace of diamonds, to discard one heart, ruffed a diamond and ran off all the trumps.

It didn't matter who held the long club. East had to hang on to the ace of hearts. West had to keep the high diamond; no one could guard clubs and the grand slam wheeled in.

MR. AND MRS. EMMET SPENCER

Golden Anniversary event set Sunday

EDEN — Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Spencer, Eden, will celebrate their 50th Wedding Anniversary Sunday at the Eden City Park.

There will be a family potluck dinner from noon to 2 p.m. with an open house reception from 2 to 5 p.m. The Idaho Old Time Fiddlers will provide entertainment.

The couple was married Sept. 6, 1923, at Twin Falls, and they have lived in Eden their entire married life. Mrs.

Spencer moved to Eden from Hansen in 1912 and Spencer moved there from Milner in 1914.

They have three sons, Emmett H. Spencer Jr. and Robert (Bob) Spencer, both Jerome, and Everett Spencer, Rupert. They lost two daughters, Fern in 1931, and Adeline Deuel in 1972.

The couple's many friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Bridge winners

Mini-Reviews

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Public Library officials have released mini-reviews for some of the new books recently received by the library.

"The Cottage" by Gretchen Travis. Phyllis Holmes' world was to be filled with terror when Bruce came to fill a void. He was too good to be true.

"Walking Davis" by David Elv. An irrefragable adventure story. On March 17, 1970, Pierce Davis set out from his homestead of Spark, Iowa, to walk around the world.

"Albert Einstein, Creator and Rebel" by Banagh Hoffman. This beautifully written illustrated memoir is a testament to the indomitable spirit that pervaded the life and work of Albert Einstein. "When the Enemy is Tired" by (Russell) Bradton. A relentless, gripping story of a once secure man, whose war with himself is matched by a deadly contest with an implacable captor.

"The Twenty-eighth Day of Elul" by Richard M. Elman

Can Alex Vagadah remain a Jew? If not, he stands to inherit a good deal of money.

"The Hwitt Runner" by Frank O'Rourke. Meet Doc Neely's gang, the most unlikely band of criminals the west has ever seen.

"Soaring, the Sport of Flying Sailplanes" by William T. Carter. A complete sportsman's guide to soaring for beginners — a clear explanation of soaring dynamics for the layman.

"American Folk Medicine"

by Clarence Meyer. Actual recipes — for remedies Americans have used and considered helpful.

"Captain Hollister" by David Chandler. The author captures the banality and futility of all wars from the Siege of Troy to the debacle in south-east Asia.

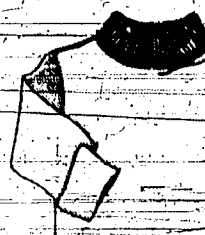

"The Reunion" by William Kuhns. A superb novel of adventure dealing with collective guilt and with a perverted Eden in which man's best instincts towards fellowship and companionship turn into insane cruelty.

Magic Valley Favorites

Week's Recipe Winner
MRS. BERTHA ALLEN
Box 306, Kimberly

CATTLE RUSTLER'S HASH
1 small package macaroni
1 pound lean ground beef
¼ cup finely cut onion (optional)
2 tablespoons chili blend
1 teaspoon salt
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
½ pound grated cheddar cheese
1 can cream of mushroom or chicken soup

Cook macaroni according to directions on package and drain. Brown the beef in an ovenproof skillet, then put to one side and add the onion.

Cook until limp but not brown. Add the chili blend, salt and tomato sauce and mix well. Cover skillet and simmer for 20 minutes. Add the macaroni to the beef mixture, then top with the cheese. Spread the soup over the top. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes. Makes six servings.

The Times-News will pay $5 each week for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page Editor.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: Last weekend, in all humility and with no intended irreverence to Moses, I published my "TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR WIVES." Here is the companion piece, "TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR HUSBANDS."

1. Thou shalt put thy wife before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter, and thy son, for she is thy life-long companion.
2. Abuse not thy body either with excessive food, tobacco, or drink; that thy days may be many and healthful in the presence of thy loved ones.
3. Permit neither thy business nor thy hobby to make of thee a stranger to thy children; for the most precious gift a man gives his family is his time.
4. Forget not the virtue of cleanliness.
5. Make not thy wife a beggar, but share willingly with her thy worldly goods.

Husband commandments

6. Forget not to say, "I love you." For even tho thy love be constant, thy wife doth yearn to hear the words.
7. Remember that the approval of thy wife is worth more than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers. Cleave unto her, and forsake all others.
8. Keep thy home in good repair, for out of it cometh the joys of thy old age.
9. Forgive with grace. For who among us does not need to be forgiven?
10. Honor the Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widower. Never mind my age. I live alone in a five-room house. All I want is company and someone to help me keep this place clean. No hanky panky. She would have a private room and her own TV. If she can't cook, I can. If she is under 55 years of age, tell her to forget it.

PAPPY IN PITTSBURGH

DEAR PAPPY: What do you want a housekeeper or company? Housekeepers can be found thru the classified ads, and company is found thru mutual acquaintances. If it's a combination, I suggest you socialize, and let it be known you're in the market. You'd have better luck if you found a friend and made her a housekeeper than the other way round.

DEAR ABBY: I recently graduated from high school and thought this problem would be over, but I was wrong. You see, my mother was never married, and she has never discussed the reason with me. In school when we had to fill out forms, where it had, "Father's name" I always made one up because I was too ashamed to leave it blank.

Now I have the same problem again when I apply for a job.

There are other places where father's name is asked, too; hospital admissions, and insurance forms, to name a few.

What do I say when someone hands a form back to me and says, "You forgot to fill in your father's name?" Thank you, kindly.

FATHERLESS GIRL

DEAR GIRL: It's nobody's business. I checked with the Census Bureau. They referred me to the State Human Rights Office, whose spokesman said, "Just tell her to leave the space blank."

If someone hands it back to you, saying, "You forgot," look them right in the eye, and say, "No, I didn't," and hand it right back.

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 89700, L. A., Calif. 90089. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

What You're Saying

What is the gravest threat to national security?

Norma Myers, Twin Falls — Richard Nixon. Someone's got to get rid of him. It's terrible to feel that way about a man but Mont Johnson — We don't know where the hell we're going, what the hell we're doing. It's time for the government to get down to business, taking care of things at home instead of letting all those lawyers do it. Anytime you go to get something done, it takes six months to get it off the sidewalk. The laws are so complicated it takes courts too long to come to any decision.

William Haffner, Twin Falls — I always figured the greatest threat was internal, not the other way around. People just don't see eye to eye on things anymore. They can't get together.

Lynn Ricks, Twin Falls — In my opinion our problem is giving too much money, food and help to other countries without getting anything in return. These people are not respecting us for what we are giving them.

Vicki Moore, Hansen — I think a threat to the security of the whole world is the breakdown in trade. Also, I think giant international corporations are a threat because they can work above normal diplomatic channels.

Lorin Rowley, Ogden, Utah — Internal politics. There's too much dishonesty in the government, that's what I think.

Talent Director Selected For ABC Network

Howard Golden has been named Director of Talent for ABC Entertainment. It was announced today by Martin Starger, President of ABC Entertainment. In his new position, based in Hollywood, Mr. Golden will report to Steve Mills, Vice President, ABC Entertainment, West Coast. Commenting on the appointment, Mr. Mills stated, "Mr. Golden's abilities and background are ideally suited to this vitally important position. In the area of talent relations, his responsibilities will include the development and continuing liaison with the talent of ABC Entertainment."

Mr. Golden's varied career began with the William Morris Agency in 1960. In 1963 he entered the international relations field, serving as liaison for the State Department in Europe; the Middle East and Africa. Upon returning to Hollywood, he formed his own talent agency, Conway and Golden. In 1967 he assumed the presidency of Canopy Productions, involved in music publication, record production, television, films and commercials.

Mr. Golden, a graduate of

Cosell On Variety Program

Howard Cosell, a lawyer who gave up the profession to become the nation's most controversial sports commentator, says he's really a frustrated actor. "The hard-driving Cosell gets to test his comedy reflexes on the third-season premiere of 'The Sonny & Cher Comedy Hour' Wednesday evening Sept. 23. He will play in several comedy sketches and blackouts. "My drive for economic security began in the Depression of the Thirties," he says. "One day our lights were turned out and I saw my father get into a fist fight with the man sent to do it. I was determined that that would never happen again."

Thursday Television Schedule

Thursday, September 13

At 6 p.m. on channel 11 — Movie: "Evel Knievel." The daredevil motorcyclist is portrayed by George Hamilton in this film made in 1971. Location scenes of actual stunts performed by Evel are incorporated in the movie. This is a rather lighthearted account of the adventurer's first 32 years.

Jaycees Recycling Center Is Nearly Two Years Old—And It Is Termed Successful

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Editor, Times-News

The recycling center of the Jaycees of Twin Falls has been in operation for nearly two years — and it is a success.

However, it is not without headaches. The biggest, as in many projects, is financial. Two years ago the project got underway, according to Tom Lane, Jaycee president, with a $22,000 loan from the First Security Bank. Although the loan was to the Jaycees, two co-signers on the note made the whole thing possible. The co-signers were Matt Smith and Tommy Walker.

Initially, Jaycees donated the labor on a personal basis but after months and months it became evident paid employees would have to do the jobs and Jaycees the supervision. Reason: Jaycees had their own jobs to take care of.

So now the operating expenses fall between $1,500 and $2,000 monthly, with two employees, equipment expense and site rental to pay. The property is owned by I. James Koutnik, Twin Falls, who rents it to the Jaycees for $35.00 a month.

That original loan is now down to around $5,000, thanks to cooperation coming from many community leaders and just plain citizens. In the time since operation started four full freightcars have been sent to the Reynolds Smelting plant in Alabama. And each car carries 60,000 pounds of aluminum cans meaning that a grand total of more than

4,800,000 cans have "gone south."

Lane said working on such a project is contagious. There's Bill Bunty who was project chairman when it all started. Although now over-age for Jaycee membership, he still helps out. On the committee, aside from Lane, are Ray Abundis, external vice-president; Dal Scholl, who is also Jaycee treasurer; Roderick Bolian, who is secretary; Bud Phillips and Bradley.

Located on Maxwell Ave., the north side of Rock Creek when you turn east at the Singing Bridge on Shoshone St. South, the center is open every day with the exception of Sunday for shredding. You get 10 cents a pound for aluminum cans. On Saturday, all aluminum (with the exception of cast aluminum) is accepted as are Olympia and Coors bottles.

On Wednesdays — the operation is in charge of the Twin Falls Beverage Co. and they buy only Olympia bottles and aluminum cans. The Western Beverage operates Thursday, purchasing Coors bottles and cans. Representatives from both local companies aid regular employees on those days.

The center does not buy paper but will accept it. They can sell it in big lots for $10 a ton.

And the shipments to Alabama? The Reynolds company pays the freight if the shipping weight of 60,000 pounds a car is maintained.

Helping The Cause

It's This Way

WITH SACKS and boxes of aluminum cans around him, Jaycee President Tom Lane illustrates the correct way to mash your aluminum cans (if you must) on the left as you look at him and the incorrect way on the right also looking at him.

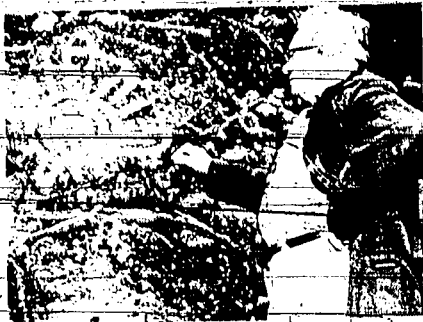

Tipping The Scale

WEIGHT IS important in shipping out — and in paying for aluminum cans. Marvin Cramer, one of the regular employees at the Jaycee Recycling Center, tests the scales.

3 Named In Trail Study

GUS KELKER

FRANK CLARKE

AL DAWSON

THREE AREA HISTORIANS who have been named as participants in connection with a study of the Oregon Trail undertaken by the United States Department of the Interior, Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, with headquarters in Seattle. The study is to coordinate the feasibility and desirability of designating the Oregon Trail route as a national scenic trail.

Three area residents have been named—citizen representatives in connection with a study of the Oregon Trail route being undertaken by the United States Department of the Interior. Names to the eight member group were O. A. (Gus) Kelker, editor of the Times-News and history researcher and writer; Al Dawson, president of the Cassia County Historical Society, Burley, and Frank Clarke, Glens Ferry pioneer and an authority on trail routes in this section of the state. Announcement of the selections was made by Maurice L. Lundy, Seattle, regional Department of Interior director. At the same time Kelker and Dawson were named members of the Idaho Bicentennial Commission oral history project along with 11 others from Magic Valley. Valley members of the oral history project, in addition to Kelker and Dawson, are Mrs. LaVerna Overfield, Sun Valley; Mrs.

Noma Creest, Ms. Marilyn Jardine and Mrs. Verna Waggoner, all Twin Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Holmes, Minidoka County Historical Society; Senator John Peavey, Rupert; Mrs. Keith Amedin, Albion; Mrs. Al Dawson and Glenn Draper, both Burley. The Oregon Trail project is for the purpose of making a study of the feasibility and desirability of designating the Oregon Trail route as a national scenic trail under the terms of the National Trails System Act. The three appointed to the group from this area are to provide information and advice, review study drafts and participate in route mapping under direction of the Idaho Historical Society. After routes are established, second phase of the study will be an analysis of potentials for recreation and interpretation. Dr. Merle Wells, director of the Idaho Society, will prepare the map atlas for the study report.

CBS Determined To Put Johnny Carson Show Out Of First

By BUCK RIGGERS
And CHET STOVER

CBS is the number one network. You do not remain number one by allowing a competitor—long term dominance in any program area. That is why CBS recently began an attack on NBC's "Today" show. And that is why CBS cannot allow the long term continuation of the current situation in late-night programming.

Right now, in terms of share of audience, CBS Late Movies run a strong second to NBC's "Tonight" show starring Johnny Carson. But each year, there are fewer and fewer good theatre movies which CBS can program. Moreover, what if ABC, now that Jack Paar has folded, should tire of wasting money on their late-night experiments and also decide to schedule top movies, thus splitting off a major share of the CBS audience?

Obviously, CBS cannot afford to stand pat. Moreover, one key man at CBS believes their opportunity to knock off the "Tonight" show is just around the corner. "It may sound trivial," he says, "but I believe Johnny Carson made a major cosmetic mistake. His decision to let his hair go completely gray has abruptly changed his image from Peck's Bad Boy to Dirty Old Man. I think he's getting vulnerable as hell."

Okay, but is there a program around which could capitalize on that vulnerability? Perhaps. Let's take a look at "The Mike Douglas Show" in 3D (Difference, Depth and Durability).

1. Difference: on any talk show, the major point of difference is the host himself. Mike Douglas is unique in that he is not only an excellent host but also an excellent performer (singer), and this seems to lend a special quality to his shows.

Even more important is the "guest-host" format. Each week, a well-known star or celebrity shares the hosting duties with Mike. This of course, is quite different from substituting hosting where the star often looks lost and viewers feel they have been shortchanged. The feeling on Mike's show is just the opposite. It is as if viewers are given two hosts for the price of one.

2. Depth: Even before his tiny Philadelphia studio was remodeled this year, performers stood in line to work with Mike in those cramped quarters. Why? Because Mike has a talent shared by only one other host (Johnny Carson)—he knows how to put his guests completely at ease and yet show them off to their best advantage.

As for technical talent, it is no wonder that direction and camera work are so smooth. Many of those tollers have been with Mike since his show moved from Cleveland to Philadelphia way back in 1965.

3. Durability: He is number one at Westinghouse since Merv Griffin took the nighttime plunge and returned with tail between legs. Mike has a now two million dollar contract, he loves his home in Philadelphia, and he likes being close to New York without having the rat race. Would he give all this up for a shot at Johnny Carson?

Probably. He likes the California climate—especially all that golfing. And the smiling Irishman is not as young as the twinkle in his eye.

John Wayne In Sunday Movie

Academy Award winner John Wayne and Robert Mitchum star in "El Dorado," a bruising, brawling, western adventure on "The ABC Sunday Night Movie" Sept. 9. Soon after the end of the Civil War two old friends, each with a fighting reputation, meet in Broken Heart Saloon in El Dorado, Tex. But J. P. Harrah (Robert Mitchum) greets Cole Thornton (John Wayne) with a pointed rifle. Harrah, the sheriff, tells Thornton he has been hired by rancher Bart Jason (Edward Asner) to force water rights from Kevin MacDonald (R. G. Armstrong) a neighboring rancher.

Thornton is on his way back from Jason after refusing the job when MacDonald's young son, Luke (Johnny Crawford), who has been stationed on a ridge with instructions to fire a warning if a gunman approaches, sees him and fires wildly. Thornton, without thinking, shoots the boy. Luke explains the error and then to escape the pain of his wound, kills himself.

Some months later Thornton is sitting in a cantina near the Mexican border when a killing, and a trio of gunmen on their way to El Dorado, make him decide to return to El Dorado to face his past and some unfinished business.

"El Dorado" (1967) was produced and directed by Howard Hawks from a screenplay by Leigh Brackett.

Friday Television Schedule

Friday, September 14

A movie special, "Planet of the Apes," will be shown tonight at 8:30 on channels 2b, 3, and 5. Charlton Heston, Roddy McDowall, Kim Hunter and James Whitmore are the stars in this movie with a satirical sting. Astronauts crash-land on a planet where men are made savages enslaved by a race of civilized apes.

Fine Line Separates Lucy From Real Lucille Ball

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Lucille Ball was back at work but her mind was on dogs. "The things about having kids," Lucy said, "is that whenever they break up with their boy friends or girl friends, or their husbands or wives, I wind up with the dogs. I've got Liza's dogs now. (Liza, of course, is Liza Minnelli, who used to go with Lucy's son, Desi, at one point in her checkered romantic career). Desi is staying with us again. He came home. "This morning, I called up to him and told him that, before he went out, he had to clean up Liza's dogs' manure. He said he would. In a little while he showed up with a shovel. "He said, 'Where is it?' I said, 'You're standing in it.' "She says it's funny about Lucie, her daughter, and Desi and dogs. All her life, Lucy has had dogs and all her life she says she's had no problem housebreaking them. But, she says, neither Lucie nor Desi seems able to housebreak a dog. Lucy, after spending her summer vacation shooting "Mame," finds the TV scene comforting. She says she loved doing the film but she prefers the TV system. "I guess," she says, "I've been doing it so long that I'm used to it." She looks great. Her hair is a bit on the wild side and she knows it. "I look like I've just stuck my finger in an electric socket," she says. "Otherwise, I'm fine. My leg (she broke it skiing a year ago) feels good although I'll never ski again. There are four metal pins in it but now it's stronger than the other one." She says there will be no changes in her CBS show this coming season. Her daughter won't be on as much as she's been the last few seasons — Lucie is doing a lot of stage work — but otherwise the show will be pretty much as is. "At this point in her career, she enjoys the stability of the status quo. She is no longer looking for new worlds to conquer although there is one small niggling ambition left. She's like to find a play she can do whenever the mood is on her. "I don't want to go back to Broadway," she says, "but I'd like to find a play I can do once in a while — in Ohio or San Francisco or wherever. It's hard to find something that is right for me. Somebody suggested 'Twigs,' and it sounds good but I haven't seen it." This summer, when she wasn't doing "Mame," she was gardening. The gardener she had for 26 years was hit by a car and his eyes were affected so he retired. Until Lucy found a satisfactory substitute, she was out there, pruning and watering and crooning to her plants. "Between that and 'Mame,' and thinking about the TV show — and all those dogs — it was a typically busy Lucy summer."

Camera Three Starts 19th Season

The award-winning series "Camera Three" begins its 21st broadcast year and its 10th season on the CBS Television Network, when it presents "Rufino Tamayo: The Sources of his Art," a film study of Mexico's foremost contemporary painter on Sunday, Sept. 9. Tamayo, born in Oaxaca in 1899, draws on the scenery and people of his own Mexican-Indian heritage for the images and themes of his work, which is represented in collections and museums all over the world. Set against the life and scenes of his native land, this film by Gary Conklin shows Tamayo at work and in conversation with his friend, renowned Mexican poet Octavio Paz. John Huston, the veteran motion-picture director and long-time admirer of Mexico and of Tamayo, narrates the film. Music is from the works of Carlos Chavez.

LUCIE ARNAZ and Lucille Ball are a real like-mother-like-daughter combo on TV. In real life, it's almost the same.

Saturday Television Schedule

Ten Years Later —

Black Count Gains But Goals Still Distant

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It has been 10 years since Martin King revealed his dream to America, a visionary assurance that one day, "upon as he was later to say, "the sons of former slaves and the sons of former slave owners will be able to sit together at the table of brotherhood."

And what a decade for minority dreams. Blacks not only became "chie," in the words of Georgia legislator Julian Bond, they became the focus and preoccupation of some of the nation's most powerful forces. A Southern president became their champion, a long-disinterested Congress lifted them to the top of the domestic agenda, an entire generation of young people rallied to their cause. Jim Crow passed away, so did Aunt Jemima — and suddenly the country stopped laughing at Stepin Fetchit.

Now it appears the popular climate has changed again. The black-people's movement has slowed, or at least gone out of fashion. "The war on poverty ended" before Vietnam, political priorities may be doing an about face. "My worry now," says one congressman, "is the white workingman," and the attention span of the young, never much to count on, has shifted to whether to wear their hair long or short, only or dry.

Even blacks themselves seem weary of the struggle. Roy Wilkins of the NAACP says, "there is no longer an objective." Of the leaders and groups who stood with King during the March on Washington, only Wilkins — an Uncle Tom to some — remains at the movement center. King is dead, so is Whitney Young and Malcolm X. Eldridge Cleaver is in exile, Stokely Carmichael married money, H. Rap Brown is locked in jail for a petty holdup and shootout.

SNCC, CORE, SCLC — they've all expired, shrunk or become unimportant.

And so where does this leave Martin Luther King's dream, the "promise of democracy for all"? At least partly realized, say some. But, say others: mostly unfulfilled.

The optimists, including black educator John Hope Franklin, believe political action in the past decade was the "most far-reaching guarantee of human rights ever put into law by an American Congress." The Civil Rights Act of 1964 foretold the end of "cattle-pen justice." The Voting Rights Act of 1965 enfranchised 2.5 million new black voters. The presidentially ordered National Commission on Civil Disorders (1968) emphasized in the strongest terms at such level, the truth of institutional racism in America.

The result of it all, according to a recent commentary by political statisticians Richard Scammon and Ben Wattenberg, was, as concisely black progress, "nothing short of revolutionary." Using census figures, the writers said that, following a decade of frenzied upward mobility, 52 per cent of black families now qualify for their definition of middle class.

Further, according to Scammon and Wattenberg, as well as other statistical compilations, today's black representation in labor unions (12 per cent) is equal to the black proportion of the population (22 million out of 104 million); black family median income is rising at the rate of more than $400 a year; black families outside the South, with heads of households under 35, enjoy salary parity with white families of the same circumstances; black unemployment has dropped one full percentage point in the decade; the number of black college students has grown from 350,000 in 1963 to 700,000 in 1973; and the encouraging effectiveness of black political power and representation has been felt in all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

Of the advances, perhaps the latter is most impressive. In 1964, according to reports from the Joint Center for Political Studies, available statistics listed 103 black people in elective American office. Today the figure is 2,600, including legislators in each state and 15 national congressmen.

Clearly, then, there have been gains. But dreams come true? Black leaders say no. Behind every statistical rise, they intimate, there is racial stagnation. Says Roy Wilkins: "The Scammon and Wattenberg figures are a pile of baloney. According to them, black families are supposed to be living high because they now earn a median $8,860. But remember, the white median family income today is $11,350. The traditional gap has widened (the difference was $2,400 in 1949) and anybody who is $4,700 behind in the general scale of things can't be said to be making breakneck speed upwards."

Black critics do not deny some progress. But, says Dr. Herrington-Bryce of the JCPS, "To cheer progress in a dynamic society where most things are progressing borders on banality. It is really the exceptions and remaining inequalities that are interesting, bothersome, and deserving of extra effort. He cites himself as an example of black "progress": born in a poor family in the Panama Canal, he is now a secure, respected, fairly well paid intellectual — but nothing similar has happened to the majority of his people.

Bryce says that while it's true black families outside the South, with heads of households under 35, have reached parity with white counterparts, this kind of Negro unit represents only 10 per cent of the black community. The important thing, he says, is while both blacks and whites are doing better today than in 1963, the black still is shortsticked by comparison.

The ugly truth, declares Bryce, is that 33 per cent of the all black people (7.7 million) and 40 per cent of all black children still live below the official federal poverty level ($3,275 a year). The corresponding figures for whites are 16 and 12 per cent.

Moreover, the statistics show: black unemployment, while down from 11.2 per cent in 1963 to 10.2 per cent today, is still double that of the white work force; black male colleagues, while increasing in number, are four times less likely to complete school than whites; black life expectancy (at 25 years old) is still six years less than whites; and the black infant mortality rate, 29 per 1,000 live births, is three times that of the white population.

Beyond the statistics there are the visual facts that black urban ghettos, if anything, have grown worse, since Dr. King's dream. More than three million blacks moved into the when he decided the waitress was not hurrying fast enough for him, he said, "I don't have to take that from a nigger," and killed her with his cane. That kind of barbarism, based on the lie of white supremacy, is no longer the routine it once was.

Not even in the South. — I was

THE UGLY TRUTH

The ugly truth is that 33 per cent of all black people and 40 per cent of all black children still live below the official federal poverty level.

cities in the 1960s and 2.5 million whites moved out. Urban drug addiction has tripled since 1963 — to an estimated 300,000; the black suicide rate among 15-24 year olds has doubled; and the percentage of black people arrested for crimes — 27.5 per cent of total arrests in 1972 — has not shrunk a minute.

Despite some statistical successes, then, many black activists believe that the view of the 1960 civil disorder commission is still correct: the nation continues a trend toward two societies, black and white, separate and unequal. As black educator Kenneth Clark says, racial injustice is as American and ever popular as apple pie.

Yet while gloom continues as the rhetoric — and the right — of those still at the equality barricades, the last decade's Second Reconstruction has nevertheless been, in purely judicial terms, the finest period in the history of black America. If for no other reason than the fact segregation by law has been effectively ended and black people (by law) are now above discrimination.

What's more, as Roy Wilkins says, "there's also been a change in people's hearts." The day Martin King told of his dream a Maryland man was on trial for killing a Negro waitress. The man had walked into a bar and ordered a drink.

in Mississippi recently," says Wilkins, 40 years with the NAACP, "we were meeting in the middle of a town square and I can tell you it was not like it used to be. When we started to sing 'We Shall Overcome' a white Mississippi mayor took my hand and joined in. I won't tell his name. He could still get in trouble for it. But the fact is here was a white official taking the risk."

Few will deny King's dream still eludes the nation. One-third of his people still live in rags and de facto ostracism. Ninety-per cent of them are still not equal to the white norm. Even their new political muscle is only about .005 of all elected offices in the land. And the momentum of the 1960s has slowed to the stagnation of the 70s.

But arguing statistics will not get the bus in gear again, as one Urban Leaguer sighs, "no matter where we get to sit." Rather urges the Joint Center's Herrington-Bryce, "what's important is the work to be done."

Because, as King said himself, in the days when at least 200,000 people cared, "there will be neither rest nor tranquility until the rough places are made plane, and the crooked places, are made straight" so that people "are not judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character."

I HAVE A DREAM

Most of Washington watched as 350,000 petitioners gathered at the Lincoln Memorial to demand equal justice. And much of Washington cheered when at least the feature of the celebration, a melodious and melancholy black preacher, got up to speak. "I have a dream," said Martin Luther King Jr., "that one day on the red hills of Georgia... that one day even the state of Mississippi... that one day the entire nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed, 'we hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal'."

Again and again he said it. "I have a dream... I have a dream." And when he concluded with the words from a song — "Free at last, free at last, thank God Almighty I'm free at last" — it was clear that the Civil Rights movement in America had come of age and the Second Reconstruction had commenced.

Hong Kong Arts Festival To Hit San Francisco In February-March '74

SAN FRANCISCO — From Western pop music to primitive African dances, the second Hong Kong Arts Festival will explore the world of music, art and theatre. Mr. Robert F. Reynolds, U. S. Representative for the Hong Kong Tourist Association, in announcing the 1974 dates, said, "Hong Kong, as the cultural crossroads of the Far East, will bring ethnic dance groups from Africa and Asia to perform side-by-side with some of the finest artists of Europe, America and Australia. These four weeks from February 4 to March 1 will offer an exceptional opportunity for travel agents and tour wholesalers to market Hong Kong."

Heading the impressive list of leading musicians will be Andre Previn and the London Symphony Orchestra. Conductors Bernhard Klose and Guido Ajmone-Marsan will share the baton with Previn, but in order to create a truly international flavor many of the soloists with the Western orchestras will be from the Orient. Eou Ts'ang, the Shanghaiense pianist, who almost made the first Festival his own with his inspiring recitals, will be back again in 1974. He will be joined by the delightful young violin virtuoso from Japan, Mayumi Fujikawa, the Chinese first lady of piano music Pi Hsien Chen, and the renowned Chinese bass-baritone Yi-kwei Sze.

Maintaining the Festival's rare gift for blending Occident and Orient, the Sydney Symphony Orchestra will perform under the distinguished batons of Japanese conductor Hiroaki Iwaki, British conductor John Hopkins, and the Rumanian-born Israeli conductor Sergiu Commission. Soloists with the orchestras include the celebrated French cellist Paul Tortelier, Russian-born pianist Shuri Cherkassky, English flautist Peter Lloyd, and the famous classical guitarist John Williams.

Ernst Maerzendorfer conducts the Vienna Chamber

Orchestra, with the very popular violinist and recording artist Wolfgang Schneiderhan as soloist. The Hong Kong Philharmonic Orchestra will perform the closing concert and the Allegri String Quartet will also be on the program.

There will be no shortage of accomplished singing voices at the Festival. Apart from the resonant bass-baritone of Yi-kwei Sze, there will be the British singers Sheila Armstrong (soprano), Helen Watts (contralto), and Robert Tear (tenor), the sixty-strong Hong Kong Festival Chorus and a Viennese male choir.

From India will come the Kathakali Dancers with their exciting Indian dance styles. They are from Kerala, where over the centuries the company has provided entertainment for the Rajas and their courts.

Another ethnic attraction, the Red Buddha Theatre from Tokyo, with its miming, costume and heritage of centuries of Japanese theatre, will provide a fascinating contrast to the English drama company. The Prospect Theatre, performing Peter Shaffer's controversial play "The Royal Hunt of the Sun."

The Birmingham Theatre Company will follow this with Shakespeare's "Henry V" and a contemporary production.

No Hong Kong Arts Festival would be complete without the captivating color of Cantonese Opera. Artistic Director Ian Hunter has appointed Hong Kong-born Patrick Lau to supervise a comprehensive program of Cantonese opera, dancing and music.

Completing the program will be a series of pop concerts and a whole host of recitals, static exhibitions, displays and expositions. There will be an exhibition of valuable Chinese porcelain; a number of Chinese puppet performances; and a presentation in Cantonese of Shakespeare.

A special attraction will be the highly skilled craftsman who produce the arts and crafts for which Hong Kong is so famous. Such interesting work as wood carving,

Hong Kong Arts Festival will feature exotic dances, Chinese opera and oriental musicians at a lavish two-month program set for San Francisco in February-March, 1974. African, Chinese, Indian and Japanese cultural groups will also appear.

ceramics, creating traditional carpet designs, and painting scenes on porcelain or scrolls will all be available to Hong Kong visitors during the Arts Festival.

Further information on events and ticket prices may be obtained from the Hong Kong Tourist Association, 160 Sansome Street, San Francisco, California 94111.

All In Family Program Back September 15

"All in the Family," the provocative, Emmy Award-winning comedy series which continues to be television's top-ranking program, returns for its fourth season on the CBS Television Network on Saturday, Sept. 15.

Coming back for another season of contemporary humor are Carroll O'Connor, starring as the irascible Archie Bunker, and Jean Stapleton as his long-suffering wife, Edith. Also starring are Bob Belter as Archie's son-in-law, Mike Stivic, and Sally Struthers as Mike's wife, Gloria Bunker Stivic. Mike Evans is again featured as Lionel Jefferson.

Sada Thompson, who electrified New York Award-winning performance in "Twigs," and Vincent Gardenia, also a Tony recipient for his Broadway role in Neil Simon's "The Prisoner of Second Avenue," join the cast of "All in the Family" for the 1973-74 season, as the Bunkers' new neighbors. Gardenia and Miss Thompson will play Frank Lorenzo and his wife, Irene, of Italian and Irish descent, respectively.

"All in the Family" is a Bud Yorkin-Norman Lear Tandem production, with Lear as executive producer and John Rich as producer and co-director. Bob La Hendro shares the directing credit with Rich. The series is taped before an audience at CBS Television City in Hollywood.

Tall Texan Stars In MGM Picture

The Hollywood press corps, on meeting Joe Don Baker for the first time, are amazed by the charisma surrounding the tall, taciturn Texan. Some have remarked about the rugged actor's capability of stepping into the very big shoes of John Wayne, and that Wayne is about to step from the throne he occupies as "one of Hollywood's superstars," but they compare him as inevitable.

After Joe Don Baker's success in "Walk, Don't Run," portraying a Southern sheriff, the young actor goes to the other side of the law in MGM's "The Outfit." He stars with Robert Duvall in a two-man war with underworld bosses. Karen Black and Robert Ryan also star in the film produced by Carter DeHaven and directed by John Flynn for MGM.

Baker spent two years at the famous Actor's Studio in New York. During those days he worked as a hotel-desk clerk, waiter, and salesman — anything to keep a little money coming in to hold body and soul together while he continued with his acting training. His career began with two plays on Broadway, "Marathon 33," starring Julie Harris, and James Baldwin's "Blues For Mr. Charlie."

Then came Hollywood — where he made his acting debut in "Cool Hand Luke" with Paul Newman. He also guest starred in many television series, especially "Gunsmoke" with another tall man, James Arness. He was Steve McQueen's brother in "Junior Bonner" and also had minor roles in "Guns of the Magnificent Seven," "Adam at Six A.M.," and "Wild Rivers."

But Joe Don Baker's big break came with "Walking Tall," and now with "The Outfit." He and Robert Duvall, as a pair of bankrobbers, taking on the might of the entire "Outfit," all by themselves, is a sight to behold. Baker and Duvall, who would appear to be several light years apart in personality, become very good friends during the course of "The Outfit's" production.

Joe Don is a college graduate. He holds a B.A. in business administration from North Texas State. It was there, in fact, that he got the acting bug.

"I did a lot of college drama," says Baker, "but actually I had started thinking about becoming an actor long before that. No big bolt of lightning struck me. I used to go to the movies and see those guys making love to beautiful women — I figured it beat pumping gas."

"The Detective" First Of New Sunday Shows

Frank Sinatra stars as a detective who finds his life in the police department becoming more important than his frustrating life as a man in "The Detective," the season premiere feature of the ABC Television Network's "The ABC Sunday Night Movie" Sept. 16.

Lee Remick also stars, along with Ralph Meeker, Jack Klugman, Lloyd Bochner, William Windom, Tony Musante (who will play a real-life detective himself on ABC this season in the new series "Toma"), Al Freeman Jr. and Robert Duvall. Pat Henry and Jacqueline Bisset are featured.

Written by Abby Mann from the best-selling novel by Roderick Thorp, "The Detective" follows Joe Leland (Sinatra) as he goes through the slow, demanding work of tracking down a murderer. After a long and arduous young homosexual, Felix Tesla (Musante), for the crime, Leland sweats a confession from the youth, which leads to the electric chair for Tesla and a promotion on the force for Joe.

Behind the pressures of Joe's work are equal pressure at home, when he discovers that his wife whom he loves very much (Miss Remick) is unfaithful.

Joe's life begins disintegrating rapidly when he becomes involved in the investigation of an alleged suicide. (Windom), prompted by a request for a look into the case by the victim's widow (Miss Bisset), discovers a corrupt operation within the city's government.

Year Of The Hanging Baskets

By GEORGE ABRAHAM
HANGING BASKET CARE:

1973 has been the year of the hanging basket. Some baskets look nice and fresh; others are scraggly.

If your basket has fern in it and the leaves are yellow, it means too much sun. Ferns don't like direct sun.

Ivy geraniums and geraniums like full sun, and will take semi-shade. Petunias will take full sun, but need to be nipped back when they get too spindly.

Fuchsias will take bright sun, while variegated begonias do best in semi-shade.

When it comes to watering, hanging baskets are difficult for most gardeners. Pots swinging in and out tend to dry more rapidly because of greater air movement around the plants.

A rule of thumb is to apply enough water at one time, so some drains through the holes in the saucer. Never allow water to remain in the saucer. Good drainage is important for hanging baskets.

If your soil remains waterlogged, plants will suffocate. You might be able to drill holes in the bottom of the pot to let excess water drain out.

One easy method of watering hanging pots is to place several ice cubes in the pot and allow them to melt. In a home this saves messy spills when pots are hanging above your head in an porch.

NEVER LET THEM DRY OUT COMPLETELY.

Hanging baskets like to be fed regularly. Use a weak solution of a liquid plant food such as 23-19-17 found in any garden store. Apply every two or three weeks.

Hanging baskets need grooming to keep blooming. Clean up dead flowers, leaves and foliage at least once a week. Snip off extra long shoots and anything that looks weak and spindly.

Insects such as scale, aphids and whitefly might be a problem. Control by spraying with nicotine sulfate and soap suds, one tablespoon to a gallon of soap suds. You can even dip the plants into the solution.

Pyrethrins are fine for banishing most insect pests. Handpick and burn any visible insect.

Certain diseases are apt to occur on impatiens, fuchsias, lantana, petunia and others. Good air circulation will prevent these. Remove infected plant parts and burn.

NOTE: Not all problems are from insects or disease. Many are caused by poor culture. Here are a few problems and their causes:

(1) Flower bud or leaf drop. Due to humidity too high or too low. Also due to dry soils. Plants growing in drafts or heavy winds are apt to lose flower buds and leaves.

(2) Yellow foliage, poor plant growth and sour smell can be due to poor drainage or too much water. Check drainage and avoid overwatering. Especially if no drainage holes are present.

(3) Leggy growth and poor plant habit. Due to insufficient light. Too much light will give some plants a bleached or faded appearance.

AEROSOL CANS: Today millions of cans of aerosol materials (food and insecticides) are sold annually. These cans are called aerosol "bombs" and that's a good name for them; because they are a potential bomb.

Never toss any aerosol can in a fire or incinerator because it will explode and send scorching flying all over. Most aerosol dispensers are packaged to have internal pressures of about 40 pounds per square inch at 70 degrees F.

Some of the food containers and soap products have pressures as high as 100 pounds per square inch. Remember, too, that the pressure increases rapidly with any rise in temperature above normal room temperature.

A temperature on a cool back window shelf may cause the can to explode. Another thing, don't place one of the aerosol cans on a heater, stove or "pilot up," because the extra heat can touch it off.

PICKLE RECIPES: We're glad so many readers enjoyed our pickle bobble. Here's an out-of-season recipe a reader wants you to try: 1 gal. cucumbers, sliced. 8 small onions, sliced. 2 peppers, sliced. Sprinkle with 1 cup salt and let stand for 3 hours, then drain. Add 5 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons mustard seed, 1 tsp. turmeric, 5 cups vinegar, 1 teaspoon celery seed, 1 tsp. cloves. Mix together and boil about 5 minutes. Drop in cucumbers, heat only to boiling (do not let boil) and pack in jars. It's great.

POISON IVY REMEDY: Here's a good cure for poison ivy. Take stems and leaves of Jewel weed (also called snap weed, or Impatiens) put in water and boil down to half the volume. Strain through a cheese cloth.

You may freeze the juice in ice cube trays or put the liquid in bath water, or rub it over affected parts.

Does any one else have a good cure for poison ivy? Please send it along.

WILTED TOMATO PLANTS: Sometimes an entire tomato vine will suddenly wilt. Check the stem to see if there isn't a borer in it. The common stalk borer will bore into any stem. Grub is a purplish pest.

Keeping weeds down is about the best control for the stalk borer. Holes in the tomato fruits can be due to cutworms or snails. Both hide in debris during the daytime and feed at night.

QUESTION BOX

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: E. D. of Twin Falls: "We have a small greenhouse and a sun porch. Please tell us which begonias we can raise."

The begonia family is a big one — and a beautiful one, too. There are some new double begonias which are in bloom the year-round.

These are fibrous-rooted (called "semperflorens") with green leaves and fully double, fluffy, bell-shaped flowers an inch or more across. Colors come in pink, double red rose and pure white.

The calla lily begonias have variegated leaves, some being pure white and appearing like miniature calla lilies, hence the name.

The Rex begonia makes a house plant, with foliage you can't beat for color.

Begonias are started from seed, which is dust-like, and cuttings. The wax or fibrous rooted types are started from seed, whereas the semi-tuberous types such as the Christmas begonia can be started from leaf stem or tip cuttings.

All begonias like a high organic starting material. Something new on the market is the Reiger begonia, a cross between a tuberous begonia and a fibrous-rooted type.

Hobbyists who are seriously interested in growing their own begonias should get a catalog from a specialist and study the magnificent varieties which are available.

All begonias like the same care — no direct sun, but filtered. The soil should be highly organic and keep uniformly moistened at all times.

Comeback of Great Giggling Guru

By LESTER KINSOLVING

After the Maharishi's Great Secret, Mohesh Yogi was deserted by his cluster of stars — the Beatles, the Beachboys, Jane Fonda and Mia Farrow — it looked as if he had faded as rapidly as most of the other holy wonders of religion's "silly 60s."

But American susceptibility to one of India's leading exports (bogus holy men) appears to be inexhaustible. Particularly is this the case when our gross national guillibility is utilized by such an army of pitchmen as those who head the 15 regional headquarters of the Students' International Meditation Society — and lately, the Maharishi International University.

MIU, one of numerous and unaccredited institutions in the religious wilds of Southern California, has a president (who was also one of the institution's incorporators) named Robert Keith Wallace.

A former research assistant at Harvard, Wallace has rendered conspicuous service to the Maharishi's transcendental meditation movement TM. He has deluged various scientific journals with detailed and impressive-looking reports that TM can definitely affect such things as one's blood pressure and rate of sweat.

So, for that matter, can a good nap. But no one is reportedly selling secret instructions in napping for $75 tuition as are the vigorous hustlers of the Students' International Meditation Society — to a reported hundreds of thousands of people.

President Wallace's scientific reports (reproduced by the thousands under the masthead of the publishing periodical) are dazzling large segments of the public — many of whom worship science.

Many people are also in such awe of Harvard that they forget that this great university also spawned the "Better Living Through Chemistry" movement of Dr. Timothy Leary.

The results of this ingenious scientific press agency are awesome. Science Digest magazine has suggested that TM may be the answer to the high school drug problem. Maj. Gen. Franklin M. Davis, a TM convert, is promoting TM centers at present in U. S. Army bases throughout the nation.

The Illinois State House of Representatives has passed a resolution in which they actually describe the Maharishi as "His Holiness" (the same title as Pope Paul) and recommend TM to the State's Educational System.

A similar proposal has been made in the California legislature by Berkeley's Assemblyman Kenneth Meade, yet another TM convert who has in turn converted a number of his fellow legislators and even the Assembly's Catholic Chaplain.

The lucrative promotion of "packaged meditation" might have gone on indefinitely and unimpeded except for one of the nation's most impressive mixtures of brains and beauty: San Francisco's City and County Supervisor Dianne Feinstein.

Agents for Maharishi-U. had inundated the Supervisors with testimonial letters in a bid to obtain an "educational" TV license. So the brilliant and beautiful Mrs. Feinstein, quoting from a New Delhi dateline, pointed out that in December of 1968 the Great Secret announced to a press conference in India that TM can alleviate both famine and drought.

Six months later, noted Mrs. Feinstein, the Maharishi announced to another press conference that immortality itself can be obtained through TM. But when skeptical Indian reporters asked him if he himself had yet attained said immortality, the great giggling guru simply smiled.

After Mrs. Feinstein noted the Maharishi's purchase of a $40,000 Rolls-Royce — as well as his statement "I get money from where it is in plenty, the United States" — the San Francisco Supervisors decisively voted down the TV bid.

'Community Spirit' Vigilantism By Another Name?

Whirlpool Laundry Pairs

By TOM TIEDE
NEW YORK — (NEA) — A drunken gunman shot and killed one man and wounded two others recently on 134th Street in Manhattan. Then, according to police reports, angry neighbors of the victims chased the killer, subdued him, "beat his goddamn head in," and turned him over to authorities.

The incident was viewed by police, press and many desperate New Yorkers as another in a recent series of similar events that may indicate a new citizen determination to help the police do something about crime in the streets.

According to the trend theory, people are fed up with being pushed around by thugs. No longer will they merely stand by in fear and docility while their neighbors are being victimized. Manhattan police report that shortly after the incident on 134th Street, 30 taxi drivers chased the suspects of an armed robbery and held them, too, for arrest.

What's more, the hope is that the phenomenon is spreading to the rest of the nation. Several urban papers have recently commented — on "citizen actions" in their own cities. In a suburb of Newark, for example, three little girls spotted a supermarket break-in, phoned the cops, gave a description of the getaway car and quick as one could yell "Stop-you-dirty-bitch," the bandit was hauled to the clinic.

To be sure, it is no wonder people grab onto such occurrences as "trends." Many Americans have long been ashamed of the "Kitty Genovese" image of citizen non-involvement. Miss Genovese was the attractive young woman who, in 1964, was raped and stabbed to death by a lone killer while 38 of her neighbors in Key Gardens, N.Y., looked on helplessly. More recently, a woman in Trenton, N.J., was beaten and raped while a dozen people stood 100 feet away without so much as speaking disapproval.

But the "new involvement," as it has already been faddishly termed, does have its critics. Police, while happy that people may be coming out of their cocoons, have cautioned citizen activists not to take the law into their own hands.

"Stopping a criminal is one thing," says a P.D. spokesman, "but kicking his teeth in is another. Police cannot act as judge and jury, so neither should regular citizens."

The American Civil Liberties Union, too, has voiced a bit of alarm. Barbara Shock of the New York chapter says that, technically, any citizen who beats up another, whether as a means of law deterrence or not, is liable to legal consequences.

While it's commendable when citizens help in criminal apprehension, it becomes a problem when force is used. The situation could get out of hand and we could have mobs of arresting and beating other people because they look different or they have different life styles. Clearly, we can't have untrained citizens roaming our cities as vigilantes.

So, it does in New York and elsewhere — another issue, another controversy. But in this case all the hopes and all the arguments may be for naught. The "new involvement?" A closer look suggests this is one trend that just ain't.

The incident on 134th Street, for example, was not at all as the reports assumed. None of it occurred, say the people on the block, in the name of community spirit.

Community spirit? On 134th Street? According to one resident of the area, Luis Figeria, "The only time people get together here is to go to the welfare office to get their check."

One thirty-fourth, off Amsterdam Avenue, is in the heart of the Spanish Harlem ghetto. "Three kinds of people live here," says a cop, "bad people, pretty bad people and scared people."

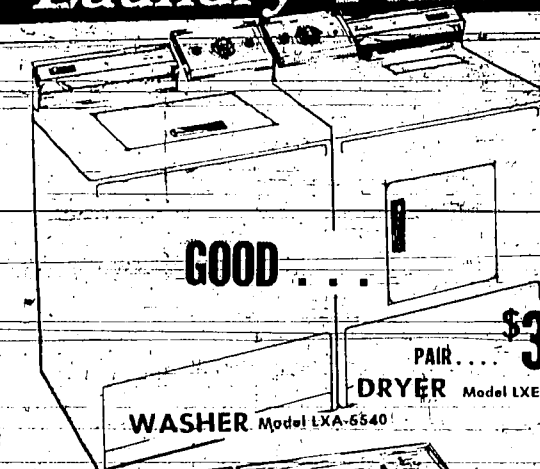

The block is a crowded canyon among decrepit and often dangerous tenement apartments. Dog urine stains the stoops, drug pushers operate openly, women can be bought for $5 an hour. The trash collectors fear to tread, there is no cop on the beat and it is not far from the truth to say that strangers — especially whites — are not welcome after dark.

Jose Espinosa, an antipoverty worker says that the neighborhood consists of Puerto Ricans who don't like Dominicans; Dominicans who don't like Cubans and blacks who don't like anybody. "Very few people speak English. Many of them are in the country illegally. Welfare is a way of life. It is hard to get anyone to understand, much less cooperate."

In this atmosphere, then, the police version of the recent street killing is suspect. Indeed, residents say it didn't happen like the official version at all. Says Luis Figeria:

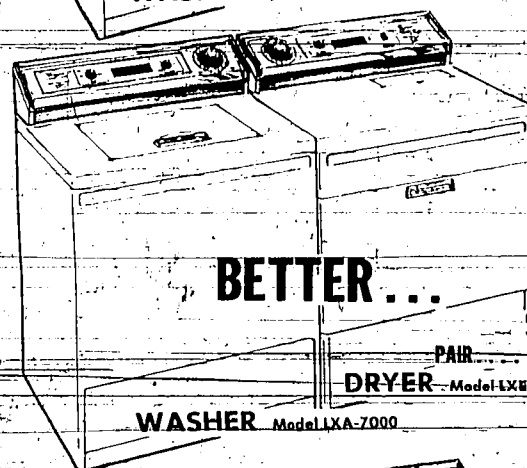

"There was this guy who hated this family. He said a month ago he was going to kill the son when the family had a party, this guy showed up and started shooting. He killed one boy and wounded two brothers. The brothers then fought back. Other people at the party joined in."

There was no spontaneous reaction in the neighborhood,
